

GREATER SEVERITY FOR 'INSIDE' BANK LOOTERS URGED

Administrative Council of Missouri Bankers' Association Adopts Resolutions at Sedalia Meeting.

WANT GUILTY MEN TO SERVE FULL TERMS

Body Also Goes on Record Against Child Labor Amendment—Would Re-verse State Banking Laws.

Full-term imprisonment for convicted bank robbers and burglars, and greater severity toward bank officials guilty of looting their own institutions, are demanded in resolutions adopted by the administrative council of the Missouri Bankers' Association, meeting yesterday in Sedalia.

The resolution adopted at "inside" and "outside" bank robbers.

"This association has been distributing large sums of money for the apprehension, conviction and incarceration of criminals who have held up, burglarized or defrauded member banks. We believe it useless to spend so much money in the apprehension and conviction of criminals unless the guilty ones remain in penal institutions for the full term."

"After a reference to 'that terrible misunderstanding we had in Forest Park,' the letter continues: 'The time for a showdown has come. Unless our affairs are settled amicably for now and eternity, I must denounce you to the world. P. S. You wrecked my life and happiness. You left me at Police Headquarters to go out with that One you got with weekly, and then you tell me you had the sweetest time ever. You dance, as it were, over my life which you have ruined. I beg of you not to be concerned with the One who has caused me all of this heartache. Dear, everything I have reminded me of you. I cannot go forward without you.'

Other resolutions adopted are in opposition to the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution; asking more equitable assessment for taxation; and urging that the State Banking law be revised at the present session of the Legislature.

M. R. Sturtevant of St. Louis presided at the meeting of the administrative council, which was attended by the State officers and group chairmen of the association.

APPEAL ACTION BEGUN FOR COLBECK AND ASSOCIATES

Proceedings Started in Federal Court at Peoria in Behalf of Nine Prisoners.

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 22.—Appeal proceedings were started in the Federal Court here today in the case of William P. (Dinty) Colbeck, St. Louis gang leader, and eight associates, who were recently convicted in the St. Louis, Ill., mail robbery trial at Quincy, Ill., and sentenced to 25 years each in the Federal penitentiary.

The Federal Judge, however, denied the four attorneys who appeared for Colbeck and his associates a desired writ of supersedeas to free the prisoners from Leavenworth Penitentiary pending the outcome of the appeal. The attorneys left Peoria for Chicago to seek this freedom for their clients from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at that city.

After five of the men now seeking appeal were convicted at Quincy they were later convicted with three others in Federal Court at St. Louis for mail robbery at that place and were sentenced to 15 more years each in the Federal prison.

GIRL SHOT BY FIANCE DIES

PEKIN, Ill., Jan. 22.—Mary Ellen Miller, 20-year-old girl, died at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon in the Pekin hospital. The girl and Fred Lichtenberger, 28, a farm hand, formerly employed on the farm of her father, William Lichtenberger, four miles south of Pekin, were found unconscious in an automobile in a field near the Lichtenberger home Tuesday morning. Each had been shot twice.

Lichtenberger later confessed he shot the girl at her request and then turned the revolver on himself when her father approached the car in which they had passed two days. Their parents opposed their marriage, he said.

Half (Almost) of Vassar Girls Admit They Smoke

Of 957 Questionnaires Sent to Students 433 Return Affirmative Replies; Want Smoking Room.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Almost one-half of the girls at Vassar College smoke and audaciously admit it. They don't smoke gold-tipped cigarettes, either, but prefer the "teen-in-a-box" kind.

This was disclosed yesterday in the student questionnaires concerning how many devotees of the habit Sir Walter Raleigh spread were in Vassar, which has a rule against it.

Smoking was not contemplated in the curriculum and rules of conduct laid out by Matthew Vassar when, in 1861—the days of hoop skirts and poke bonnets—he founded the first women's college in the United States. When the truth became known, it was the chief topic within the college gates. Today, mothers and "dads" are expected to declare themselves or send still two years ago there was no smoking regulation at Vassar. The girls simply were not supposed to light up. That some did in their dormitory rooms, however, was shown by an occasional cigarette thrust beneath a window. Many thought it most improper, but it was not an infraction of the rules, like the use of an electric curling iron.

Then came a rule, drastic and with no joker hidden in it. It said: "There shall be no smoking by any student while under the jurisdiction of Vassar College."

It is a student association rule that a matter be taken up if there is a petition of 15 for it. One was presented to consider doing away with the smoke screen.

The duty of gathering the opinion fell upon Miss Eleanor Childs Dodge of Boston, president of the students' association. Miss Ruth Hall of Kansas City, student chief justice, with charming judicial poise, saw to it that there was no electioneering.

Smoking Room Advocated.

Three questions were asked: "Do you smoke yourself? Does your family sanction your smoking? Are you in favor of the proposed law forbidding smoking in buildings and public places?"

Of 957 replies received, 433 girls admitted they smoked and 524 said they did not. There were 302 who declared they smoked with the consent of their family, leaving 131 who apparently smoked on the sly.

A total of 400 said their families did not sanction their smoking. But the greatest shock was in the answers to the last question. There were 183 advocates of a smoking room in the college.

WIDOW WARNED SENTER OF INTENT TO 'TELL STORY'

Threat to 'Tell Story to World.'

"At times I have told you I could not endure this stress longer. At times you have threatened to put me under arrest or in an insane asylum. I suppose it was within your means to buy up all the judges in St. Louis. Unless you meet him at the St. Louis happy wife, I must tell my story to the world. Of course, that will mean an end to all between us. I can neither sleep nor eat I am so unhappy. You have done more wrong and more ugly things for me than anyone I have known. I await your answer."

When Campbell was 32 years old when she met Senter in 1909. Her first husband had died four years previously.

Protestations of love and of her desire to forsake friends for Senter were contained in others of her letters. In 1915 Mrs. Campbell wrote of "the terrible thought that I must kill myself and you, too," but apparently the thought did not last long, for some years later she was sending him a shampoo formula with the observation: "I don't want you to lose all your beautiful hair."

The "terrible misunderstanding we had in Forest Park" Senter, on the stand, described as a quarrel in front of the Art Museum, in which he said Mrs. Campbell "tore the shirt off my back."

The interest he paid for loans was paid at all from $18 to $65 per week on each $1000, Turman said.

M. S. HAWKINS IN JAIL AGAIN IN LIEU OF $20,000 BOND

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 22.—Morton S. Hawkins is in the Montgomery County jail again. The alleged leader of a $100,000 stock swindle in Portland, Ind., was committed to the jail in lieu of $20,000 bond this morning by order of United States Commissioner Andrew S. Liddings.

Hawkins was held for appearance forthwith in the United States District Court at Indianapolis in answer to an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud, following the preliminary hearing before Commissioner Liddings.

Hawkins' attorneys filed an application for writ of habeas corpus in the Federal Court at Cincinnati today. The suit was continued by Federal Judge Hickenlooper here late today until Saturday.

POLICE BILL WOULD COST CITY $1,450,000

Pending Salary Measure, Adding That Amount Yearly, Not Subject to Revision.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Cost to the city of St. Louis of its State-controlled Metropolitan Police Department will be increased approximately $1,450,000 a year, if the St. Louis police salary bill, introduced in the House of Representatives by 18 of the 19 St. Louis representatives, is passed in its present form.

The salary increase bill carries general increases for all men on police duty, the increases ranging from $3000 a year for the Chief of Police down to $250 a year for probationary policemen.

The measure carries an emergency clause which would make the bill effective at once if passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor. The bill states the act is in the nature of an emergency "because of the increased cost of the necessities of life and the inadequacy of the salaries heretofore paid to certain officers and the members of the police force in large cities and because of the necessity to preserve the efficiency and standards of the police force."

Provisions of the bill require that the salaries be paid the police force shall not be less than set out in the bill, and includes a clause rendering null and void "any act of the municipal assembly or common council tending to lower" the proposed salary schedule.

All of the St. Louis representatives joined in introducing the bill, except Waltham Moore, negro, of the third St. Louis district.

The bill would increase the salary of the Chief from $5000 a year to $8000; Assistant Chief and Chief of Detectives from $4000 to $5000; Assistant Chief of Detectives from $2400 to $4000; secretary of the Police Board from $2700 to $4000; Inspector of Police from $2800 to $4000; secretary to the Chief of Police from $2800 to $3500; superintendent of the Berthillon system from $1800 to $2000; Captains from $2700 to $3500; Lieutenants from $2400 to $3200; Sergeant from $2000 to $2800; patrolmen from $1740 to $2500; probationary patrolmen from $1200 to $2000; detectives from $2000 to $2800, and turnkeys from $1320 to $2000.

Immediate action in Judge English case demanded.

ly in favor of Judge English, who, Flannigan admitted, does not want an investigation. The session ends in six weeks and Hawes expects to hear the argument. It is too late to start an investigation.

Although Judge English is a Democrat appointed by President Wilson, Flinn J. Garrett, the Democratic floor leader, and other St. Louis politicians are in the committee have stood with Hawes.

It is from the Republican side of the committee that the delay and opposition have developed. The appearance of this opposition apparently coincided closely with the visit of Flannigan to Washington.

Representative Hawes based his demand for an investigation solely upon the publication of news accounts and editorials in the Post-Dispatch. Some members of the committee take the position that the resolution should have additional ground, such as affidavits. They fear that setting a precedent for the investigation of Federal judges in response to newspaper statements might lead to endless investigations.

Hawes' Reply.

Hawes has pointed out, however, that he is asking for the investigation upon his own responsibility as a member of the House. But some of the members of the committee have held to the other viewpoint.

The development of that viewpoint coincided closely with the appearance here of Flannigan.

"MA" FERGUSON'S SOCIAL SECRETARY

Deposed Texas Executive Sits by Governor-Wife and Says "They" Will Grant Pardon.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 22.—"Jim, who signed that application?"

It was a query from the woman Governor of Texas to her husband, who sat a few feet from her in the Governor's office.

"Jim" read the document in silence. It was a pardon application for Sylvester Montalban, of Houston, serving a sentence for murder. Finally Ferguson spoke: "Well, I see the names of two newspaper men on it, so it can't amount to much."

The Governor laughed. Everybody laughed. She was in a good humor for her first newspaper interview as Governor.

"I recommend, Governor," he said, "that this man be granted a 60-day extension of his furlough to give him time to make his crops. In that time the Board of Pardoners can decide what to do."

Ferguson called his wife "Governor." Mrs. Ferguson called her husband "Jim." Most of the pronouncements were in the first person plural, "We."

The newspaper men found the first woman Governor leaning back in her swivel chair, with her hands resting on top of her head, as though a bit tired after the fatiguing night of social whirl that put the finishing touches on her inaugural day.

She had gone to the office at 10 o'clock yesterday, having arisen considerably later than usual. As she approached the door of the office she looked in to find it full of people waiting for her. She hesitated as though on the threshold of a great adventure. Then, with her husband, who is thoroughly familiar with all the doors of the office, she hurried around to the side door of the private office, and then entered upon her official duties.

Gov. Ferguson's message to the Legislature produced a ripple of applause when it was read in the Senate, but caused no other pause in the consideration of Senate business. When her suggestion was made that a tax on cigars and cigarettes would produce $4,000,000 annually for the schools, the chamber was wreathed in tobacco smoke. The face of each Senator was grave and impassive.

The first step to set aside the impeachment of former Gov. Ferguson was taken in the Senate yesterday. A resolution introduced by J. Roy Hardin of Kaufman recited that results of the November election indicated it was "the sense of the people of Texas that the Ferguson name be vindicated and that 'all disqualifications incident to the impeachment be removed.'"

Alternative Courses.

Definite decision by the Rules Committee not to report out the Hawes resolution would not mean that the prospect of an investigation would be ended. Two courses would remain open, namely, the filing of a complaint with the Speaker of the House by any citizen, and the impeachment of the Judge by a member of the House.

MRS. E. W. BENTLEY GRANTED DIVORCE

Daughter of Late Haberdasher Is Awarded Decree on Charges of Desertion.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—Mrs. E. W. Bentley, daughter of the late F. A. Bentley, wealthy haberdasher, obtained divorce in Circuit Judge Pearson's court today from Edwin W. Bentley, her second husband. The divorce was granted on charges of desertion.

The suit was filed yesterday in the St. Louis Circuit Court, the promissory with which the divorce was entered was made possible by the action of Bentley's wife, Mrs. Bentley, who was charged with desertion.

In her petition, filed by the firm of which her brother-in-law, John S. Leary, is a member, the plaintiff charged that her husband deserted her June 8, 1920. It appeared from testimony that Bentley, in business in Dallas, Tex., deserted Mrs. Bentley's first husband, Leary, in 1918.

Mrs. Bentley has two children, a son and a daughter, both of whom are in the St. Louis Circuit Court today from Edwin W. Bentley, her second husband. The divorce was granted on charges of desertion.

LIQUOR VENDOR SUES WRITER

Canadian Alleges Story of Liquor Conditions Was Overdrawn.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 22.—In a writ issued in Supreme Court on behalf of Alexander C. Dickson, vendor of a provincial government liquor store here, damages are claimed from A. B. MacDonald, writer of Kansas City, the Curtis Publishing Co., Philadelphia, and R. H. Best, Vancouver agent of the company, in consequence of a story alleged to have been written about the liquor store under his charge, which is said to have been published in the Ladies' Home Journal.

In what the plaintiff alleges is a highly colored and imaginative picture of actual conditions, the writer is said to have depicted boys and girls standing on tiptoe to reach the top of the bar for their bottles. The innuendo that he was breaking the law, because he is not permitted to sell liquor to anybody under 21 years of age, the vendor asserts.

DRUGGIST FINED $994, AMOUNT OF POSTAL FUNDS HE TOOK

Pine Lawn Man Pleads Guilty to Embezzling From Sub-Postoffice.

Fred W. Fortman, a druggist of Pine Lawn, who maintained in his store a sub-postoffice, was fined $994 today by Federal Judge Faris, the sum to which he had pleaded guilty to embezzling from the post-office money in his possession last summer.

Horace L. Dyer, Fortman's attorney, pleaded for leniency. Dyer explained that Fortman, in managing his store, had been careless in not drawing a rigid distinction between his own funds and those of the Government and that during the summer the druggist, after having some alterations done in his store, had used the postoffice money to pay the bills. Dyer explained, to show that Fortman was in good faith, that the druggist had sold his store and paid back the funds to the Government two days after the inspector had discovered the shortage.

Upon the recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney Crook, Judge Faris imposed the fine, remarking upon the number of similar cases tried recently in Southwestern Missouri. "This is a condition that has got to stop," Judge Faris said. "Some of these Postmasters seem to feel that everything that comes into a Post-office belongs to them. This is the last time I shall take a chance."

SENATE TAKES UP POSTAL PAY AND RATES BILL

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Postoffice salary bill, carrying also drastic revision of postal rates, was taken up today by the Senate.

A move to make the pay increases retroactive only until Jan. 1 of this year instead of July 1 of last year, gained headway after Republican Senators had conferred on the subject. Definite decision, however, was postponed. Another attack on the rate increases applying to newspapers was launched by Senator William D. Pomeroy of Massachusetts, who offered an amendment to exempt weekly and daily newspapers with a circulation of 5000 or less from any advance. The first half of the bill revising the pay schedules, was approved tentatively.

FAMOUS YALE SWIMMER DIES FROM PISTOL WOUND

William L. M. Jeffitte Said by Police to Have Shot Self—Married in November.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Friends of William Lee Ming Jeffitte, known as the best all-round swimmer that ever attended Yale University, and son of Dr. Smith K. Jeffitte, noted neurologist and alienist, insist the young man's death yesterday from a pistol wound in the head was the result of an accident. He was found wounded in the apartment in Astoria, Queens, which he occupied with his bride of two months. He died yesterday in the Roosevelt Hospital.

Police described the case as suicide but the medical examiner merely gave the cause of death as gunshot wound.

Last November Jeffitte married Miss Myra Hare of Indianapolis, who also was a swimmer. They met at the Olympic tryouts in Indianapolis last spring. Jeffitte was captain of the 1923 swimming team at Yale. He had been studying medicine recently.

FOURTH MAN GETS LIFE TERM FOR KILLING WARSAW SHERIFF

Clinton (Mo.) Jury Finds Charles Ross Bringham Guilty After Brief Deliberation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Mo., Jan. 22.—Charles Ross Bringham was convicted of the killing of Sheriff Garrett Groomer at Warsaw, the jury bringing a verdict at 10:37 last night, after being out three and a half hours. Bringham was sentenced to life imprisonment, the fourth of five men accused of the killing to receive that penalty.

Bringham accepted the verdict calmly and turned to speak to his father. The courtroom was well crowded during the day and was filled with spectators, many of them women, when the verdict was brought in.

Roy Blair, a member of the gang which is alleged to have killed Groomer, and two Collinsville, Ill., policemen testified that Bringham told them he had killed Groomer. Bringham and his father were the only two witnesses for the defense. Bringham admitting being at War-at the time of the killing, but that he knew nothing of the killing and he was in the car drunk and lying until the following day.

ADDED SAVING ON CITY GARBAGE SUGGESTED

Research Bureau Advises That Disposal Contract Be Let for Period of Years.

The Bureau of Municipal Research, which began an agitation more than a year ago leading to a saving to the city of $55,000 in a one-year garbage disposal contract, finds room for more saving in disposing of the city's refuse.

In the current issue of Mind Your Business, the bureau's official organ, it is stated that the city can save still more money on its garbage disposal contracts by letting them for a period of years instead of for one year at a time. The issue is addressed to Alderman Wiehe, chairman of the Committee on Public Utilities of the Board of Aldermen.

Let as Emergency Work. Under the present practice the Board of Public Service is permitted to let garbage disposal contracts as emergency work, the contracts to run not more than one year. A pending bill, now in the Committee on Public Utilities, empowers the Board of Public Service to let contracts for a term of years.

"For several years no permanent plan has been followed in disposing of the city's garbage," it is stated by the bureau. "Each year the Board of Public Service has contracted for its disposal as emergency work. This practice of letting one-year contracts is costing the taxpayers thousands of dollars annually."

"Bidders on one-year contracts must include in their bids the cost of acquiring the equipment or high charges for its depreciation. A contract for five years would allow these same charges to be spread over the several year period and only a part of them charged each year. The equipment required for disposal under a one-year contract would be serviceable for disposal during a five-year contract."

Favorable Report Voted. To make possible this saving, the bureau recommends that the committee report favorably on the pending bill.

"The Board of Public Service has advertised that on Feb. 3 it will receive bids for garbage disposal," it is stated. "Two proposals are requested: 'A' for a temporary contract to run one year and 'B' for disposal for a five-year period beginning Feb. 20, on which date the present one expires."

"A contract for a term of years cannot be awarded without the ordinance authority provided for in the board bill now in your committee. If the bill is passed Jan. 22 it can be signed by the president of the board Jan. 30, and because of its emergency nature could become a law immediately after approval by the Mayor. Under this procedure the ordinance could be made effective a few days before the letting advertised by the board. Unless this ordinance is approved before Feb. 2, the board may be forced to award another emergency contract for one year with limited competition and with the uncertainty of securing just and fair prices."

Escaped Convict Recaptured. By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22.—The arrest here yesterday of Charles C. ("Chalk") Collins, a former member of "Diamond Joe" Sullivan's gang, who escaped from jail at Winfield, Kan., last Sunday, resulted in the arrest later of Voni Davis, who police said was an escaped murder convict from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary. Three other men and Sullivan's widow were also arrested in the apartment house.

American Commissioner Ill. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Jeremiah H. Smith Jr. of Boston, Commissioner-General of the League of Nations in Hungary, who was recently reported to have broken down under the strain of his work, is not seriously ill, according to private advices received today by New York bankers. Mr. Smith's indisposition is regarded as only slight, it was said, and he is expected back at his desk shortly.

Encounter Difficulty When Licenses Are Issued Without Investigating Identity of Owner.

Difficulty which police encounter in tracing owners of automobiles through license numbers, when licenses are issued without investigation of the applicant's real identity and address, appeared doubly yesterday when officers attempted to locate the driver of a car which knocked down and critically injured Lulu Coleman, 18, a negro, of 2621 Walnut street, at Jefferson avenue and Market street, at 8:45 p. m. Tuesday.

The machine, according to witnesses, bore the license number 71-111 and was being driven by another negro. She took the Coleman girl home and gave her address as 1723 Chestnut street, but departed without giving her name. Following the records, the police went to 106 North Fourteenth street in search of Basil Tsaraklmanis, to whom the license had been issued for an Essex coupe. The address proved to be the quarters of a political club and nobody could be found who ever heard of Tsaraklmanis. They then went in search of the woman. The Chestnut street address was found to be the site of a garage which is under construction.

William A. Schollmeyer, who on Dec. 16 was sentenced by a jury to 16 years in the penitentiary for burglary and larceny of rugs and art goods, valued at $15,400, from the store of A. H. Asadorian, 4239 Olive street, today withdrew his motion for a new trial and announced he would accept the sentence, which he will begin serving immediately.

Six other charges of burglary and larceny of motor vehicles were continued generally. Circuit Judge Frey stating they would be kept on the docket to be used if Schollmeyer is released before three-quarters of his term is completed. Pearl Johnson, in whose flat at 4458 Page boulevard part of the Asadorian loot was found, was charged jointly with Schollmeyer, but the case against her was dismissed in recognition of her testimony for the State.

JURY DISAGREES IN JERSEY LIQUOR CASE

Weehawken and Jersey City Policemen and Officials Were Freed for Conspiracy.

By the Associated Press.
JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 22.—The jury in the trial of 12 Weehawken and Jersey City police officials and civilians reported this morning that it was unable to agree on a verdict. The judge discharged the jury.

The 12 men were charged with conspiring to violate the State prohibition laws. The jury had been out since 3:07 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Assistant Prosecutor McMahon of Hudson County announced that the case would be retried, possibly within the next two weeks.

For the last 15 of the 18 hours and 53 minutes that the jury had been out, R. A. Lauenstein, the foreman, reported nine men had stood for conviction with the remaining three still only refusing to change their acquittal vote. The first ballot was eight to four for conviction; it was reported.

New Trial in Same Court.
Assistant Prosecutor McMahon set at rest persistent pre-trial rumor that in case of a "hung" jury the retrial of the 12 would be held in another court. The new trial will be held in the same court, he said, declaring that the work of drawing a new panel of talesmen soon would be started.

The police defendants, all in uniform, smiled broadly. George Cutley, defense counsel, said he was "well satisfied to have that jury out of that room."

As a result of the testimony of two prohibition agents, Charles L. Hulbert and Lionel Wilson, prosecutor John Milton announced yesterday that he would ask the grand jury next week to consider evidence which characterized United States Senator Edward I. Edwards as a backer of William F. Griffin, one of the men on trial.

Names of Defendants.
The 12 defendants in the trial were William F. Griffin, Jersey City insurance broker and alleged manager of the "rum running" syndicate; Harry J. O. Stearns, Police Commissioner of Weehawken; Charles McNamee, captain of the Hudson County boulevard police; Lieut. Charles Kelling and Patrolmen Philip McNulty, Louis Grunewald, Joseph Hennessey, Edward Lewis, Fred Volmer, Joseph Fisher, Joseph Daly and John McMahon, all of the Weehawken force.

Indictments were returned largely on evidence gathered by the Rev. George F. Bennett, pastor of St. Lawrence's Roman Catholic Church, a parish within a stone's throw of the abandoned Baldwin Avenue docks, Weehawken, where the conspirators were alleged to have landed thousands of cases of liquor taken up the Hudson River from rum row.

FEDERAL TAX RECEIPTS FALL BELOW TREASURY'S ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Federal tax receipts in the current fiscal year probably will fall considerably below the Treasury's estimates, it was indicated yesterday in final figures on collections from July 1 to Dec. 31.

Income tax receipts amounted to $780,611,221 in the six months, whereas the preliminary estimate had contemplated $828,000,000 or more. Miscellaneous taxes produced $461,000,000, against an estimate of about $426,000,000. The March and June income tax installments may serve to bolster up the total receipts for the year from that source, but it was said miscellaneous receipts are due to decrease in the same period.

As compared with receipts from the corresponding six months in 1927, the total collections fell off something over $108,000,000. This decrease came through a drop in income taxes of $40,848,330 and a reduction in receipts from miscellaneous sources of $67,485,506. It was explained, however, that this comparison must be considered in the light of the changes in rates, and the decrease, on that basis, is regarded as not so serious as it appears.

Woman Who Shot Husband Freed.
LARAMIE, Wyo., Jan. 22.—Justice of the Peace Hunt at the preliminary hearing yesterday of Lillian Carter (Richmond), charged with murder in the second degree in the slaying of her husband, William D. Richmond, last Friday, ordered the woman discharged, the verdict of the Coroner's jury finding that she shot in self-defense being upheld. Mrs. Richmond will accompany her father-in-law, C.

JUSTICE HOLMES DENIES HE WILL LEAVE BENCH

White House Spokesman
Says That Jurist Has Never Indicated He Wanted to Retire.

HIS RECORD AS DISSENTING JUDGE

He and Brandeis Represent
Liberal Element in Court
That Is Becoming Ultra-Conservative.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, to whom Washington rumor has attributed the intention of leaving the supreme bench at an early date, denied to a close friend recently that he had any present intention of retiring.

At the White House it was said, when the report regarding Justice Holmes was called to the attention of the President's spokesman, that he had given no indication of a desire to leave the bench.

Apparently the report rests on no other foundation than the advanced age of Justice Holmes. He is nearly 84, and has been on the bench for 22 years by appointment of Roosevelt. The recent retirement of Justice McKenna at the age of 81, advanced him to the place of senior associate justice. His health appears excellent. That there has been no diminution of his remarkable mental powers is evident from the character of his recent opinions, all of which have been marked by his habitual force and clarity.

A Dissenting Judge.
Justice Holmes is not only, in the opinion of many close students of the Supreme Court, the most gifted man intellectually on the bench but he is the chief bulwark against an encroaching tide of ultra-conservatism set in motion by the appointments of President Harding. Some of his opinions, especially those dissenting from conservative pronouncements by the majority, have been the expositions of the liberal point of view.

Whenever a clear issue is drawn between property rights and human rights in a case before the Supreme Court it can safely be assumed that Justice Holmes, whatever the majority opinion of the court, will be found on the side of human rights.

"Holmes, Brandeis, and Clarke dissenting" runs like refrain through the court reports for the years when Justice Holmes was supported in his liberalism by the two Wilson appointees.

The resignation of Justice Clarke early in the Harding administration reduced the liberal wing to Holmes and Brandeis—Holmes the product of an aristocratic New England environment, Brandeis the few whose appointments had been fought in the Senate because of his race—a strangely assorted pair in their common sympathies and the brilliancy of their minds. These two kept the torch of liberalism alive.

Loss to Liberalism.
With the passing of Holmes, which is certain to occur before many years, liberalism will suffer a loss on the Supreme bench that will be hard if not impossible to repair. Justice Sanford, the last of the Harding appointees, may range himself definitely on the liberal side; Mr. Coolidge conceivably may bring the two opposing schools of thought nearer to balance.

But neither the contemplation of these possibilities, nor the certainty that Brandeis will carry on, can assuage the depression that liberals feel when they visualize a Supreme Court without "Holmes, J."

JUDGE COMPELS SENTENCE OF YOUTH FOR BURGLARY

Jury Threatened With Contempt
After Hesitancy in Sending Youth to Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 22.—It required direct orders from Judge W. W. McCrory of the Ninth-fourth District Court yesterday to compel a jury to fix punishment for a defendant after a plea of guilty had been entered. D. Fay Elzyner had pleaded guilty to burglary and the court had instructed the jury to fix the punishment. The jury retired and then returned and the foreman declared the jury was not satisfied as to the guilt of the defendant.

The foreman said the jury was not in favor of sending Hayner, who was 19 years old, to the penitentiary. "A regular school of crime," Judge McCrory explained that the jury could do nothing else as the law provided confinement in the penitentiary as a punishment for the crime of burglary. When the jury still hesitated the Court informed them they were bound to take the law from the Court and to refuse to do so was to lay themselves liable for contempt. The jury again retired and fixed punishment at two years in the State prison. Hayner pleaded guilty to two charges of burglary and one of theft of over $50.

CONTEST OF GROCER'S
SECOND WILL ON TRIAL

Twenty-five Plaintiffs in Involving $50,000 Estate of Louis Stapelfeld.

Trial of a suit contesting the will of Louis Stapelfeld, retired grocer, who died March 2 last, which the bulk of his estate, valued at $50,000, was left to Sophronia Barringer, of 2139A Vincent avenue, was begun in Circuit Judge Killoren's Court by a jury yesterday.

The 25 plaintiffs contesting the will of Louis Stapelfeld, at the time he was made, was under the influence of Eugene J. MacMahon, his attorney, and Mrs. Barringer. It is claimed that Stapelfeld, who was 86 at his death, played evidence of childlike behavior in his later years and that the merchant, two months after his will was made on April 21, 1911, had been declared of unsound mind in Probate Court.

Employees of the Mercantile Trust Co., where Stapelfeld kept a deposit box, testified to the pecuniary of his actions on several occasions when in the bank. It was his habit, it was said, to clip bond coupons lying on a table in the coupon room. On occasions, one witness stated, Stapelfeld was seen trying to flirt with women customers of the bank, dressing them as "sweethearts."

Bank witnesses testified that in March, 1922, Stapelfeld authorized the International Bank to honor checks presented by Barringer against his account which balanced, at that time, $3066, although it was then that Mrs. Barringer never took advantage of this privilege.

Almost all of the 25 plaintiffs were relatives of Stapelfeld's deceased wife. Should they win the case, the will under contest would be set aside in favor of Stapelfeld's first will made in June, 1912, the terms of which will $2000 was have been given to benevolent objects.

ADVERTISMENT
Easy Way to Break
Severest Cough

No matter how long you have had a persistent, weakening cough—no matter how many remedies you have tried without success—you can usually get relief in a few days by using DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR COUGHS. The method is based on a remarkable preparation known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take one teaspoonful of it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief seems almost magical, and the quickness with which the whole cough condition disappears is often simply amazing. There is nothing better for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, tracheitis, whooping cough, and almost every throat irritation. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. Go to all good druggists. Ask for.

BETTER CITIZENS

BY ROSENWALD

Chicago Man Charges That Flout Laws They
Not Like and Feed Bo
legger's Purse.

RESPONSIBLE FOR CRIME WAVES, HE SA

No Country, How Strong, Can Exist Unl
Its Laws Are Enforc
He Asserts in Address

The "so-called" better citizens who feed the bootlegger's purse flout the laws they do not like. He came in for a brief but pointed denunciation at the hands of J. Edgar Hoover, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., a speaker at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon yesterday.

Rosenwald is in St. Louis as a Chicago delegate to the United American Hebrew Congregation now in session at Hotel Statler, and two other prominent delegates were guests at the chamber luncheon.

"We, the so-called better citizens, are in a large measure responsible for the prevalence of crime in our American cities," Rosenwald said. "If we are going to condemn the breaking of laws we must so day pay the penalty. No count however strong, can continue to exist unless its laws are enforced. If the best element will not be their will be the major loss."

Tendency of Better Citizens. "We better citizens want to break the laws we think are wrong and obey the ones we think right. If we do that, can we expect other people to obey the laws we think are wrong?"

"If it were not for people like the bootlegger would not be nearly the market for his wares as it is now. If we are going to encourage the bootlegger, we must suffer the consequences, or, to avoid the consequences, we must look the question squarely in the face and find a remedy."

Rosenwald was preceded by Marcus Rauh, former president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and Marcus Aaron, president of Pittsburgh's Board of Education. John G. Lonsdale, as chairman, referred to Pittsburgh as "our city in smoke." Rauh pointed out smoke could be regulated by convincing manufacturers that the profit of smoke from a chimney represents so many lost units of energy and so much of actual money. Pittsburgh is making rapid strides in an educational campaign, he said. Rauh spoke mainly of Pittsburgh products—Carnegie, Frick, Mellon, Westinghouse, etc. Rosenwald responded with eulogy of Charles G. Dawes, Chicago "native son."

Against Politics in Schools. Aaron talked on politics in schools and lauded the St. Louis school system as he found it years ago, when he was one of a committee making plans for reorganizing Pittsburgh's schools. He learned more from your superintendent of schools than Dr. W. W. than we learned anywhere in the United States," he said. "I feel it my duty to call your attention to the danger of letting politics get into the public schools. I am told that your people every year take less and less interest in the school board elections. Let me warn you that politics is the greatest danger confronting the school system of every American city. It is up to you business men to keep it out of your schools."

FAR WEST MEN CONSIDERED FOR AGRICULTURAL PORTFOLIO

Merritt of California and Campbell of Montana Are New Possibilities for Portfolio.
By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Coolidge, in his search for a new Secretary of Agriculture, is scanning the region west of the Rocky Mountains, as well as Middle West.

Two men from the Far West, Ralph F. Merritt, a leader in co-operative marketing movement in California, and Thomas Campbell of Montana, generally known as the world's greatest wheat grower, it was learned today, are under consideration.
Merritt is known to have the endorsement of Secretary Hoover. The California man was Food Administrator for California during the World War, and was president and general manager of the Rice Growers' Association of California and the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' Association.

Army Prohibition Enforcement.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
To carry out the policy advocated by "Citizen X" of enforcing prohibition would be to deprive every American of his personal liberty. We must remember the French Revolution.

If the Government placed a soldier at each saloon to enforce prohibition then this would eventually force the saloon keeper to open blind pigs in private residences; would also force the bootleggers to operate on the streets.

During the year of 1919 I had the experience of meeting bootleggers operating on Fifth avenue, New York City, selling a flask at a time from their pockets.

Should the saloons be forced to close their doors the saloon keepers no doubt would take the easiest route and start operating from private residences. In this case your home as well as mine or that of any other citizen could be raided every 10 minutes, as all homes would be under the suspicious eye of the Government.

To me prohibition and banditry both seem to be diseases of the war. They will not be cured over night. The microbes of these two dreadful diseases must be killed by time—they are multiplying by the hundreds of thousands and taking many of our young men.

War seems to be like a comet. It leaves a wake. We are now passing through the wake. How many more lives must we sacrifice before we breathe the fresh and pure air of liberty? SAN JOSE MONTERREY.

Cigarette Smoking.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
ACCORDING to your issue of Jan. 19 the smokers of this country use 43,000,000,000 cigarettes. That just means several million men and women will have less pep than their fathers had, and a general breakdown of the smoking population will set in before they are 45 years of age. I am convinced that unless the smoking habit is curbed Uncle Sam may become General Debility. It seems for the good of the children to come this useless occupation should be abolished, which could be easily enforced by the prohibition of the plant bed.

TOBACCO RAISER.

Treatment of Auto Tourists.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It seems that the hard road system in Illinois is proving a very lucrative source of revenue to some of the smaller municipalities and their police officials, as long as what get by with the arrest and conviction of unwary motorists who have not been fortunate enough to have a copy of the various traffic ordinances so that they could be consulted before passing through the town.

It is true that many towns offer every convenience and inducement within their power, and welcome the modern tourist as a boon and revivifier of the ofttime retrograding mercantile conditions that exist.

However, there are many others who seem to be prejudiced against this class of people and take the advantage of their being strangers, to "rub it in," as it were.

It is high time for the various motor clubs and associations to look into such conditions as these and, if nothing else can be done, publish a list of the various towns which they are "pinching" indiscriminately, so that the driver may proceed through them with caution.

Every motorist, I think, tries to obey the law, at least in spirit, but there are many radical conditions that need rectifying. HOOKED.

Cryptic

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
AFTER reading Mr. Henry Shepherd's letter, where he denounces the banquet given by the Zoological Society, at which both man and monkeys attended, I am thoroughly convinced that Darwin was right. VICTOR H. WILDER, 6004 Pershing avenue.

Another Job for the Junior Chamber.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I HAVE noticed in the "Letters from the People" column lately, articles referring to the civic activities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. I refer particularly to the suggestion of "Mr. Citizen" that the Junior Chamber see that the names of the streets in the South Side are properly posted.

While the Junior Chamber is looking into this situation, I wonder if it would not be possible for them to consider also the present handicap of inefficient and improper numbering on the houses themselves. The work this organization is doing for the benefit of the public is very commendable and greater co-operation should be given them by the public if they can put across these things. ANOTHER CITIZEN.

ACTION ON THE WORLD COURT.

Advices from Washington state that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is considering the question of our participation in the World Court and whether it shall be taken before the Senate for a vote.

Senator Pepper has expressed the opinion that there is no time in the remaining days of the session to take up the question because there are other more important legislative matters pressing for Senate action. He thinks there would be a debate which would consume too much of the Senate's attention.

We do not know of any question that is more important than this. Two Republican Presidents, Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge, have approved our participation in the World Court, under the Hughes reservations. The subject, with the recommendation for action by both Presidents, has been pending from nearly the beginning of the late President Harding's term.

The question of participation has aroused widespread public interest, and approval of favorable action has been expressed by numerous organizations representing great masses of the people. On account of this public interest, Senator Shipstead, who is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and unfavorable to our participation in the court, has declared that he would urge action on the part of the committee.

The failure of the committee to report the resolution now would mean the postponement of any action for more than a year. The committee, on account of the court opposition of a majority of its members, has been acting as an obstruction to any consideration of the question by the Senate, and to any action whatsoever. The majority is using its power ruthlessly, in disregard of the popular desire for action and of the Senate's right to pass upon the issue.

Naturally, the report of the committee would be unfavorable to the court. It can make any report that the majority may favor. But the question of participation should at least be put to the Senate for decision.

Smothering issues of vital importance to the American people and to mankind in general is a wretched part for a committee to play. It is free to express its opinion, but it ought to give the Senate a chance to express its opinion, and it ought to meet the popular demand that the question be decided on its merits by the whole Senate.

In view of the full discussion of the court and of the question of our participation, there is little need for prolonged debate. What is needed now is action.

TROTSKY'S EXIT.

Trotsky, once the fiery war lord of communism, is thrust ignominiously into the discard, and he accepts his fate with a humility in strange contrast to his bellicose demeanor of other years. His departure marks the end of the first bolshevik dynasty, and the beginning of an oligarchic rule whose future is most uncertain. If Lenin was the brains of the Russian revolution, Trotsky was its right arm, which visited ruthless cruelty on the enemy. Together they formed a team which worked with remarkable success.

It is significant that both Lenin and Trotsky, faced with immediate executive problems, were forced to abandon their rigid adherence to the theories upon which the bolshevik government was founded. Lenin, tactful and subtle, disguising his recognition of the unworkability of idealistic communism by well-chosen phrases, kept his hold until the last. Trotsky, less ingenious in reconciling his imperialism to communistic theories, fell foul of his enemies. Trotsky's fall, no doubt, is due quite as much to jealousy of his power as to his heresy.

His successors profess to be rigid communists. Perhaps when they come face to face with the practical problems of government, as Lenin and Trotsky did, they will fall into a few heresies themselves. They swallowed Lenin's "New Economic Policy," a departure from communism. But they rebelled at Trotsky's denial of the right of parts of Russia to withdraw from the Government at Moscow, a right especially guaranteed as a communistic principle.

Lenine, with a genius for leadership, was invulnerable. Trotsky is not. Lenine is dead and apotheosized. Trotsky is cast into outer darkness.

THE GREATEST BULL MARKET.

After reviewing the great bull markets of the past 25 years, Richard D. Wyckoff, in the Wall Street Journal, regards the present one as the greatest of them all. He reckons the present upward trend as beginning in 1921 and its duration so far as 41 months. Other markets have had higher average prices, notably those of 1900-1902 and 1907-1909; however, it is pointed out that an issue like Corn Products, now selling around 40, is equal to 200 for the old stock, and Woolworth, now around 125, is the equivalent of 500. So that a comparison of average prices is deceptive in gauging the strength of the present market.

Mr. Wyckoff's opinion that the present bull market has more solid foundations than preceding ones seems to be substantiated. At the turn of the century there was a period of railroad activity of continental proportions, and industrial organization on an unprecedented scale. There was a distinct savor of "boom" which inflated the market. But the new and gigantic corporations were spending great sums which cut into dividends and left the future uncertain, while the railroads were to experience a country-wide wave of regulatory legislation. The bull market of the war period was built obviously on quicksand.

The present bull market has a background of very steady industrial and political conditions. There is not likely to be any legislation of scary character to corporations during the next four years. Gigantic industries, in their swaddling clothes a quarter of a century ago, are now functioning full blast. Railroads which have known many lean years are paying attractive dividends. Financial panic, a bogey often feared in the past, is rendered improbable by the Federal reserve system. Finally, Europe is slowly arriving at financial stability. The pound is nearly at its pre-war figure and the Dawes plan has soothed the continent.

All this does not mean that the market is a sure thing for the small speculator. The opposite is true. There are always hidden forces which may cause a temporary depression in a solidly established bull market. Bear movements in the course of a general rise are no uncommon phenomena, and they burn many an unwary finger. The whole point is, that unless some unforeseen condition arises, there seems to be no reason why the present market should not endure. But don't gamble on it.

CURES FOR BANK WRECKING.

Missouri has been fed up on bank failures due to looting from the inside. It has been fed up on the complacency of directors of wrecked institutions who profess not to have known what was going on. It is surfeited with the legal loopholes that have permitted bank funds to be dissipated, with loss to thousands of depositors.

The answer to aroused public feeling has been the introduction of 35 bills in the Legislature to strengthen the State banking laws and prescribe heavier punishment for wrongdoers. One bill goes so far as to fix death as the maximum penalty for embezzlement.

Drastic penalties are not so much the need of the hour as sound laws and thorough inspection. It is difficult enough to obtain convictions and make them stick with the penalties we have. Extreme penalties would increase the difficulty.

It is directly due to the Legislature itself that we do not have more adequate inspection of State banks, trust companies and building and loan associations. For the examination of more than 1700 institutions the Legislature has provided a force of only 20 examiners and seven assistants at a salary of $200 a month each. The total State outlay in a year for inspection is less than half the losses in two wrecked banks in St. Louis. The legislative parsimony toward bank examination is less excusable in view of the fact that the State collects a fee from each bank for examination which might be increased to improve the quality and frequency of the service.

MR. PORTER'S PERFORMANCE.

As spokesman for the American delegation to the international opium conference at Geneva Congressman Porter has been a boorish misfit. He has impugned the good faith of Great Britain and insulted the distinguished British representative to the conference, Viscount Cecil of Chelwood.

The opium problem in the East is a difficult one. The illicit traffic in drugs is a world-wide problem. The solution is engaging the earnest efforts of the ablest, most enlightened men everywhere. These are the kind of men that are attending the Geneva conference. By his offensive conduct Porter has insulted all of them and he has made the United States ridiculous by his proposal, in a fanatical harangue, to solve the problem by a prohibition ukase.

Mr. Porter is thoroughly unqualified to represent the United States in any undertaking where dignity, tact or ordinary courtesy are required. If the present were his first offense some excuse might be found for sending him to the Geneva meeting. It is not his first offense. But our Government should see to it that it is his last. If we cannot be represented properly and competently at such councils let us not be represented at all.

"MA" FERGUSON AND TOBACCO.

"Ma" Ferguson's first message contains a proposal to place a tax upon "the luxurious privilege of smoking," and she is sure that it will cause no objection "because the man who smokes is generally the most liberal man in the community." So speaks matriarchy in its most dulcet tones. Mrs. Ferguson is an old-fashioned woman, who refers to smoking as though it were the special joy of one of the sexes. She ignores entirely the fact that women even as far west and south as Texas also enjoy this luxurious privilege.

Moreover, the tax the new Governor proposes is one on manufactured smoking products. Natural leaf goes unpunished. So does plug and all other forms of chewing tobacco. Nearly all her rural supporters, as Mrs. Ferguson apparently is quite aware, are addicted to the cud, and she shows her astuteness in exempting the chewer. She knows better than to put a tariff on chewing and to wheedle the chewer as a "most liberal man."

A most original touch is displayed by Mrs. Ferguson when, after proposing the new tax, she also suggests that the tax very simply might be eradicated. All the objector has to do is to quit smoking. "If a high-toned gentleman of society smokes 20 10-cent cigars each day," he would pay a tax of 2 cents daily. But if this smoker is "not interested in the great cause of education" (to which the proceeds are to go), let him forego his cigars. If the same high-toned gentleman objects to license taxes, he can also give up his automobile. Mrs. Ferguson, however, did not carry the analogy that far.

Somewhat or other, Mrs. Ferguson's message is disturbing. No telling what other "luxurious privileges" she may place a price on, stimulating our housewife Governors of the future to do likewise.

ON GOLF AND MATRIMONY.

Roger Wethered, British golf star, is to marry Miss Elizabeth Cavendish-Bentinck. The news of this interesting engagement tails off with the remark that Miss Cavendish-Bentinck is not a golfer. Why should she be? What chance for happiness would they have if she were? For, if the future Mrs. Wethered were a golfer she would probably play 15 holes in some where between 115 and 150 strokes. Moreover, she might insist that Roger play with her. He, agast at the prospect, would show his reluctance. Tears. More tears. "You're a selfish brute," and so on.

Experts on marriage always prescribe community of interest as a postulate to happiness. But there is a hard and fast line which must be drawn. It's all right to agree on Camembert cheese, the theater, friends, enemies and the like. Golf is different, a purely private precinct which should not be invaded. Nor is this simply a masculine attitude. We should weep to read that Alexa Stirling or Glenna Collett had married a golf-crazed duffer, as duffers usually are.

No, the fact that the Mrs. Wethered-elect knows not a brassie from a styrie is very heartening. Nor would it destroy the point of this comment if, instead of being no golfer at all, she was a very good golfer. It is an axiom, supported beyond all argument by figures, that a good man golfer can always beat a good woman golfer. And a very superior golfer like Roger Wethered gets zest from the game only when competing with his equals.

Truly, in espousing a girl innocent of golf, Wethered is wise in his generation.

LIBERTY ENSLAVING THE WORLD.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the Post-Dispatch By CLARK McADAMS Copyright, 1925.

MAUD MULLER.

Maud Muller, on a summer night,
Said, "That high-toned, clumsy wight."
Then, seating a shotgun, raised the latch,
Took a shot at the Judge in the melon patch.

The Judge, in moving his person hence,
Caught his trousers high on the barbed-wire fence.

He kicked and struggled in black despair,
But the cloth was strong, and it would not tear.

Maud got her kodak and trained it true,
And a flashlight took, with the Judge in view.

Then, bringing a lantern, smiling said,
"Just a minute; I'll call my brother Ed."

And father and mother and Sister Ann,
The twins, the baby, and Cousin Dan.

The Judge gazed wildly down the lane,
Where he left the horse with the chestnut mane.

And he said, "Sweet Maud, for the love of Mike,
Please help me down from this cruel spike."

Just kept it quiet and raked the hay,
And Sunday shall be our wedding day."

Maud married the Judge, and his sisters proud
Put him out of their cheap little highbrow crowd.

The Judge found the maid with the sunny hair
A queenly woman, and very fair.

And never again while the swift years fled,
Did she mention the kodak or mythical Ed.

A. G. HALTERMAN.

Sir: I am very glad S. B. G. had been amused, because it was my wish to amuse someone, and to start a discussion among the disciples of the agora. This was the reason I have taken the extreme side by criticizing Mr. Shaw's play. You must also know, dear S. B. G., that I have written my review having in mind the Russian attitude against "Saint Joan," and therefore I had to take the standpoint of an average theater-goer who gets his impressions by witnessing the play without reading it before or after the performance to be able to understand its philosophy. The Russians have necessarily taken the same standpoint, and I believe that the very scene on the River Loire was the outstanding cause in prohibiting the play in Russia.

It has never been my intention to misinterpret Mr. Shaw, whom, by the way, I esteem, although I do not always agree with him; nor have I stated that Mr. Shaw is a complete atheist or pacifist, but—imagine for a moment Mr. Shaw's attitude toward a woman of Joan's type, had she sprung up during the last war—say in Belgium! Judging him by his earlier plays, wouldn't he have laughed just a little?

It seems you wish to say, O. S. B. G., that your "wits are nimble enough" to understand G. B. S. thoroughly. I cannot deny it, nor can I admit it. But to be sure about it, pray descend from Odin's heights and clarify the points which I have "misinterpreted."

STUDIOSUS.

MISSOURI TRAVELOGUE.

I come—I seen—I left. I ain't no writer and I don't aim to fool nobody. I seen the king of the ivories fool a bunch of dubs out of three thousand five hundred dollars, some nickels and pennies. I don't recollect just how many.

I set there and looked and listened and thought of my old lady always preachin' about things comin' to you if you wish hard enough. What I want to ast some of these second-story birds is—did Harry wish to keep your collar from slippin' off? If he writed that speech they made Harry read I shore wouldn't of made him say "I am going straight," before 5000 folks, includin' his wife and little boy. I shore would have saved his feelin's that much. Fact is, he should of followed the refrain of the Republican party, namely, I ain't goin' to steal no mo', no mo'—I ain't goin' to steal no mo' (boobs join in chorus, namely). How in 'ell can you boobs tell you ain't goin' to steal no mo'?

Anyways, I'm fer him, an' if I could play a planer I'd step out and bust some bird in the noodle before the rush starts to get Harry's job. But I can't play no planer, but they shore is a opportunity open fer planer players at Jeff City. Git out the old blackjack, fellows, and ride it to fame. I ain't mean, I am jist a country flosser.

P. S.—Me an' the old lady ain't speakin' now. She swears wishin' done it.

HICK.

LINES.

Oft I have played with words, built of them rhymes,
Made castles for my fancies, or sweet chimes
My dancing heart to 'company, or so wrought
From them fair mourning vels to shroud my thought.

And now that I some wondrous thing would make,
Some rare, exquisite plaything for your sake,
I search my words, my lovely words, and find

Nothing at all, nothing within my mind
That is not far too humble, far too base,
To come before the radiance of your face.
Therefore, Oh, loved beyond all power of telling,

I bring you from my spirit's mystic dwelling,
Only my silence, mute with holy feeling,
To tell you things past any word's revealing.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

STATE PARKS FOR MISSOURI.

From the St. Joseph News Press.

AFTER having been so long without State parks, Missouri has abruptly acquired three—or, at least, has taken toward acquisition. The State Park Commission, made up of the Governor, Attorney-General and Game Warden, has begun to look for land in the Ozarks to serve the double purpose of fish and game preserves and public playgrounds, but comes Mr. Harry R. Wainwright of Kansas City with the announcement that he will seek an injunction against consummation of the purchases. As to Mr. Wainwright's reason for opposing the investments we are not advised. His position is the most astonishing in that, as a member of the Legislature, he was author of the game law which served Missouri for many years, and was believed to be especially interested in the propagation and protection of wild life. Some opponents of the recreation trusts have objected because of the expense, but it must be borne in mind that the cost is not a charge against the taxpayers, as the money for purchase, development and maintenance comes from the fish and game fund, derived from fishing and hunting license fees. As to development and maintenance, moreover, the State would do well to follow the example of the Federal Government in its national parks, which is—especially as to Yellowstone Park—to restrict development almost entirely to the building of roads and bridges. Most of the national parks are "in the rough," the purpose being that the public shall see them now much as the pioneers, and this we believe the people appreciate. With this method of treatment the State parks would be inexpensive. After all, the real purpose would be to acquire suitable tracts and make them readily accessible.

WASHINGTON'S BICENTENNIAL.

From the St. Joseph News Press.

THE bicentennial of the birth of George Washington will occur in 1932. Both houses of Congress have approved a resolution establishing a commission to formulate plans for the detailed observance of the occasion. . . . The Senate named as members of the commission, are Frank B. Rowland, of Ohio, Spencer of Missouri, Baynard of Delaware and Glass of Virginia. Under the terms of the resolution, the commission must prepare its plan for submission to Congress by March 1, next, in order that enabling legislation may be provided in time to permit the observance to be worthy of the words of the resolution, of the event, "which transcends in importance any other historic event of a similar kind that has ever been commemorated by the nation."

In all probability some form of pageant will be a part of the commemorative exercises. The celebration will center in Washington, but it is likely that individual states will be encouraged to have commemorations simultaneously with those in Washington.

It also is likely that the Bicentennial will be observed in Europe, particularly in England, from which country came Washington's forebears. It is not too much to expect that the observance will be world-wide.

It is about time that the American people of the present generation were getting better acquainted with George Washington.

St. Olaf Choir Gives Two Concerts of "Divinely Warbled Voice" at Odeon.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

A SIGNIFICANT object lesson what a leader of musical quality can achieve with unforced and transient material offered in two concerts given yesterday afternoon and evening at the Odeon, before capacity audiences, by the Lutheran Choir of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. A few graduates as soloists, a chorus of nucleus; the others of chorus of 60 mixed voices men and women, one-third of whom are student singers, one-third of whom are professional changes each year, and with Dr. F. Melius Christensen as director. The result of the confluence of handicaps is a genius, as the choir has proved, two earlier visits to St. Louis, music of a seraphic perfection.

The choir's astounding prowess was displayed last night in a very first number, "Sing Ye to the Lord," by Johann Sebastian Bach. This has a first section in counterpoint, a second in free part-writing, and a four-part fugue, which made an inexhaustible supply of breath and speed of florid execution which would do credit to fleet-fingered pianist. The singers performed from memory, without instrumental accompaniment, threaded the intricate labyrinth of melody with such lightness and dexterity, with such a taint of tread, that one doubts the report of one's own ears.

The first "Jazz Hymn." There followed one marvel after another from the Protestant hymnology—Hassler's "O Sacred Head" (1613); "O Wondrous Type!" chorale from pre-Reformation times; and then Dr. Christensen's own "Hosannah," at hearing of which many listeners pricked up their ears incredulously. For this was probably the finest sacred anthem ever couched in symphonies, and the composer smilingly spoke of it afterward as his "Jazz hymn." The effect was dignified and not in the least reverent.

Heavily humming effects, like an organ, and again like string orchestra, were obtained. Dr. Christensen's "A Snow Mountain," a Christmas hymn, in which the choir glided through a complex of wondrous modulations with symphonical accuracy and ease. In quiet strokes of shading beauty Rachmaninoff's "Gloria Be God," a melody after the Znam tradition.

Fourth Century Anthem.

Next, in an old Catalan style of the nativity, harmonized by Louis Roussier, and again for the fresh, girlish and set the voice of a young soprano taught to use the clearest diction and the utmost nicety of phrasing.

This was followed by Dr. Christensen's "Welcome Again," a quartet behind the scenes proving an echo of ethereal loveliness. Other numbers were Gretchen's "Our Father," Dr. Christensen's "As Sinners," and a Norwegian folksong, "In Heaven Above"; Schreck's "Vent Motet"; and "Beautiful Lord," a hymn of the fourth century.

For the good of music in St. Louis, it might be suggested that next summer Dr. Christensen should hold at Northfield a master class in grace of nuance, element of shading, flexibility and refinement of beat, and musical sense, in general, and that pupils there be enrolled Mr. G. of the Symphony Orchestra, Fischer of the Pageant Choral Society, and Mr. Galloway of Morning Choral and Apollo Club.

Sponsors of the bill, which is an amendment to the sinking estimated that the bill would be about 100 beneficiaries under the bill.

St. Olaf Choir Gives Two Concerts of "Divinely Warbled Voice" at Odeon.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

A significant object lesson in what a leader of musical spirituality can achieve with untutored and transient material was offered in two concerts given yesterday afternoon and evening at the Odeon, before capacity audiences, by the Lutheran Choir of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. A few graduates as soloists, by way of nucleus; the others of the chorus of 60 mixed voices merely student singers, one-third of whose personnel changes each year, and four hours a week for rehearsal—but with Dr. F. Mellus Christian, as director. The result of this confidence in hand-picked and genuine, as the choir has proved on two earlier visits to St. Louis, is music of seraphic perfection.

The choir's astounding prowess was displayed last night in the very first number, "Sing Ye to the Lord," by Johann Sebastian Bach. This was a first section in counterpoint, a second in free part-writing and a four-part fugue, which demands an inexhaustible supply of breath and speed of florid delivery which would do credit to a fleet-fingered pianist. The singers, performing from memory and without instrumental accompaniment, threaded the intricate labyrinth of melody with such lightness and delicacy, with such variety of tread, that one doubted the report of one's own ears.

The First "Jazz Hymn."

There followed one marvel after another from the Protestant hymnology—Hansel's "O Sacred Head" (1613); "O Wondrous Type," a chorale from pre-Reformation times; and then Dr. Christian's own "Hosannah," at hearing the beat of which many listeners picked up their ears incredulously. For this was probably the first sacred anthem ever couched in syncopation, and the composer smilingly spoke of it afterward as his "jazz hymn." The effect was dignified and not in the least irreverent.

Unclear humming effects, now like an organ and again like a string orchestra, were obtained in Dr. Christian's "A Snow Mountain," a Christmas hymn, in which the choir added through a complex of remote modulations with symphonic accuracy and ease. Exquisite strokes of shading beautified Bachman's "O Holy Be to God," a melody after the Znamens tradition.

Fourth Century Anthem.

Next, in an old Catalan song of the nativity, harmonized by the Rev. Luis Romeu, there pealed forth the fresh, girlish and sensuous voice of a young soprano, brought to use the clearest diction and the utmost nicety of phrasing. This was followed by Dr. Christian's "Welcome Again," with an aquatint behind the scenes providing an echo of ethereal loveliness. Other numbers were Gregorian's "Our Father," "Dr. Christian's 'As Sinks Beneath the Ocean,' a Norwegian folk-melody, "In Heaven Above," Schreck's "Advent Motet," "Beautiful Savior," a hymn of the fourth century. For the good of music in St. Louis it might be suggested that next summer Dr. Christian should hold at Northfield a master-class in grace of nuance, elegance of shading, flexibility and refinement of beat, and musical sensitivity in general; and that as pupils there be enrolled Mr. Ganz of the Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Fletcher of the Paganini Choral Society, and Mr. Galloway of the Morning Choral and Apollo Clubs.

TIME

This is a message from the Missouri Theatre to the several hundred thousand St. Louisans who "haven't the time" to study, to attend symphony concerts, to take vacations or trips to foreign countries. It is a message for the many who have to keep on the job to speed the city's industries and institutions ahead.

With individuals as with theatres: "The show must go on!" To all who "cannot take time" for such long diversions we say: "Come spend two hours with us each week at the Missouri—the Famous Players theatre of St. Louis."

In a year, with one visit a week, you will see fifty-two noted novels or plays on the screen. You will see the world and its people; the news and fashions and while touring the universe you will hear fifty-two celebrated musical numbers—all from a comfortable seat in the Missouri! Certainly you have time to do that!

BAKER'S HERITAGE LOOKS LIKE DEFICIT

Unpaid Bills and Deficiencies Likely to Wipe Out Hyde's Paper Balance.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Unpaid State bills and departmental deficits left by the Hyde regime as a heritage for the Baker administration already total approximately $1,250,000, it was learned today with most of the State institutions still to report.

The obligations virtually will wipe out the paper balance of $1,421,550 shown for the general revenue fund at the close of the biennial period on Dec. 31, last, and will leave only the shell of the "nest egg" that "was pointed to with pride" by the outgoing administration. These unpaid claims are chargeable against the general revenue fund, which is the operating fund for the State. In addition there are on file in the State Auditor's office about $250,000 in other unpaid claims, not strictly classified as deficiencies for which "relief" appropriations must be passed.

A deficiency of approximately $110,000 also exists in the blind pension fund, which is financed by a special State tax levied apart from the general revenue.

Paper Balance Wiped Out.
This conversion of the Hyde paper balance in the general revenue fund into what may prove a deficit, starts the Baker administration off under much less favorable financial circumstances than surrounded the beginning of the Hyde administration four years ago.

Former Gov. Gardner left an actual cash balance of $2,651,311.87 in the State treasury for the Hyde regime. The general revenue fund balance turned over at the close of the Gardner administration was $4,504,730.26. From this was deducted $1,953,418.39 for deficiency appropriations and unpaid accounts, leaving $2,651,311.87 in cash for the Republicans.

Records of most of the deficiencies on file in the State Auditor's office are not complete, as not all of the departments and institutions reported their deficiencies. When the deficiency records are complete, deficiency bills will be prepared for submission to the Legislature. The deficit thus far in the appropriation for assessment and collection of the revenue is $70,000, it was stated at the State Auditor's office, with about one-third of the counties still to report.

This deficit is in payment by the State of its proportion of the cost of assessing property in the counties.

Some of the Deficiencies.
A deficiency of $154,985 exists for publication in newspapers of the constitutional amendments and initiative propositions submitted to voters in the general election last November. The cost of publishing the amendments and election notices was $1350 for each county and the City of St. Louis.

One of the claims is for $27,627 due the St. Louis Board of Education for State aid to teacher training courses maintained in connection with the public schools. The St. Louis claim for July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1934, totaled $72,780.48, but only $42,152.30 remained in the treasury when the claim was presented.

The appropriation for payment of costs in trials of criminal cases is about $60,000 short of the bills from the various judicial circuits.

The deficit in the appropriation for transportation of criminals to penal institutions is $9990, and another deficiency of $3066 exists in the appropriation for apprehension of criminals. Included in the latter is action of the St. Louis Sheriff's office for a reward of $300 offered by the State for the capture of "Jimmy" Miles, of St. Louis, who was charged with killing Charles O'Neil at the Washington Hotel in St. Louis on Feb. 5 last.

$44,000 for Traveling Expenses.
Among other deficiency accounts are claims for $44,000 for traveling expenses of State Bank Examiners, now being carried by city banks; $73,666 for the State penitentiary; $2013 for the Girls' Industrial Home at Chillicothe; $1200 for the Library Commission; $4830 for printing and embossing stationery for the executive department; about $70,000 for State printing; $24,488 for the Springfield and Cape Girardeau State Teachers' Colleges, and numerous smaller items.

The December bills of the State, submitted after the first of this month, also are chargeable against general revenue. These bills average about $650,000 a month, it was stated, but may run heavier for December, as it was the last month of the biennial period.

Claims received thus far for reimbursement of the counties for expense incurred in the special constitutional election last February total $145,310, with two counties still to report. This amount is not classed as a deficiency, it was said, and a "relief" appropriation bill for payment of the counties will be introduced in the Legislature. Among other unpaid accounts classified as relief items are $48,450 for payment of State aid to rural high schools, to be taken from school funds; $7000 for salaries of special judges; $5400 for inheritance tax refunds and about $7000 in refunds from the Escheats fund, comprising money unclaimed by legatees at the final settlement of estates and turned over to the State.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE CALLS WITNESSES IN WHEELER CASE
Testimony on Senator's Alleged Fee Acceptance on Oil Land Leases to Go to Grand Jury.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Testimony as to the charge of accepting a fee after his election for appearing before a Government department in connection with oil land leases, on which Senator Wheeler of Montana was indicted last spring in his own State, is being resubmitted by the Department of Justice for submission to a grand jury in the District of Columbia early in February.

A number of witnesses called in the Montana proceedings have been subpoenaed to come to Washington, and information has been received by Senator Wheeler's associates that he also will be formally summoned.

It was understood the prosecution, in moving for action in Washington, intended to bring the case into the territory in which the alleged incidents leading to the original indictment took place. It was also indicated that the scope of the proceedings might be widened.

Senator Wheeler has characterized the proceedings against him as a "frameup."

A special committee of the Senate undertook to investigate the indictment and submitted a report, which was adopted by the chamber, declaring the proceeding was unjustified.

Britain Sinks Battleship Monarch.
By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, England, Jan. 22.—The warships which were sent out to sea Monday to execute the battleship Monarch, in accordance with the terms of the Washington arms treaty, returned to port yesterday, leaving the old fighter at the bottom of the Atlantic, to convince "Davey Jones" that Great Britain had observed the treaty. The battleship first underwent a fierce bombing from airplanes, then she finally was sunk by the long range fire of the 15-inch guns of the battleships.

CHAUFFEUR AIDS IN FINDING STOLEN AUTO

Driver of the Car Said by Police to Admit Several Other Thefts.

A Ford coupe, with a single occupant, attracted only the passing glance of Patrolman William Ledford as it passed his station at the West End of the Free Bridge yesterday noon. But to William Lieser, a chauffeur, it afforded an opportunity to demonstrate to officials of the Mrazek Floral Co., of 2108 South Thirty-ninth street, that his duties in their behalf were not confined to driving a delivery truck.

The coupe of Miss Grace Mrazek, daughter of his employer, had been stolen last Monday and as he started across the Free Bridge yesterday Lieser recognized the machine just ahead of him as that of Miss Mrazek. He enlisted the aid of Patrolman Ledford and the unsuspecting occupant of the machine was arrested near the middle of the bridge.

Admits Typewriter Swindles. The man who described himself as Melvin Gribble, 22 years old, of 555 Melville avenue, University City, was arrested. Twenty-five Ford keys, a notary seal, dies for changing motor numbers, and several blank bills of sale were found on his person.

Questioned by Capt. Loepker of Central District, he admitted the theft of the coupe, but insisted it was his first crime. A search of police records, however, disclosed that a man giving the same name, swindled nine St. Louis typewriter agencies of typewriters last summer.

Confronted with this information Gribble admitted he obtained the typewriters. He related that he obtained them by paying a month's rent and having them sent to his home, then on North Park drive in East St. Louis. From East St. Louis, Gribble said, he shipped the machines to Hopkinsville, Ky., where he was a partner in a typewriter exchange. His partner sold them for sums ranging upwards from $50 each, he stated.

Another Stolen Auto Recovered. One of the keys found in his pockets, he said, was for his garage at 541 Melville place. There detectives found a Maxwell coupe, the property of Edward B. Blomberg, of 4143 Kosuth avenue. It was stolen last May, police records show. Gribble admitted the theft of the machine and told of driving it to Chicago and Milwaukee and later to Hopkinsville. While in the latter city he sold his interest in the typewriter exchange, he said.

Because of his admission of driving the machine to different States Gribble is being held for Department of Justice officials. A warrant charging him with violation of the Dyer act will be sought. Detectives are continuing their investigation to determine whether his activities have extended beyond the acts he admits.

W. U. TO SEVER RELATIONS WITH SCHOOL AT CAPITAL

Official Connection With Graduate Institution Will End Next June.

The official connection of Washington University and its graduate school of Government and Economics at Washington, D. C., will be severed next June, it was announced today. The Washington school has been reorganized as the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government, and, after June, will confer its own degrees instead of operating as a department of the university.

Chancellor Hadley explained that the growth of the Brookings School had been too great for the administration of its affairs from St. Louis. He expects both schools to benefit by the change which will permit Brookings School to go ahead unhampered by close supervision from St. Louis. The Eastern school offers a two-year course, requiring for admission the equivalent of a year of graduate work.

POLICEMAN, WHO SHOT OIL STATION ROBBER, EXONERATED

Coroner's Jury Finds Patrolman Lang Performed Duty in Killing "Dirty-Faced" Holdup Man.

A Coroner's jury today held that the "dirty-faced" robber, whose body lies unidentified at the city morgue, was shot and killed by Patrolman Walter R. Lang in the performance of duty.

The verdict was returned after a formal inquest in which employees told of the robber's appearance at the Standard Oil Co. filling station, at Clayton and Skinker roads, Tuesday evening. Lang, on extra duty in civilian clothes, was standing 200 feet away when he recognized the robber's mackinaw and overalls, a costume worn in half a dozen previous holdups.

The robber was killed in a revolver fight after he refused to obey a command to raise his hands.

Change Proposed in Jury Challenges. Special to the Post-Dispatch. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—A measure proposing to abolish the advantage of the defense in the number of jury challenges, and giving the State an equal number of challenges, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Brown, of Poplar Bluff. In cases punishable by death, each would have nine challenges; in cases punishable by imprisonment six, and in other cases four.

ROBBERS TAKE STAND ON CORNER; ROBS FOUR

Lone Highwayman Does Not Even Allow One Victim to Keep Carfare.

A lone robber, apparently half-
drunk and armed with a revolver,
took up a position on the corner
at Third and Barton streets, about 7 o'clock last night, and in the next three-quarters of an hour robbed, successively four pedestrians.

"This is my corner," he announced to Thomas McDonough, 67, a Government boat watchman,
after taking a dollar and a knife from him. Bernard Hirsch, 18, of 3908 South Broadway, had only nine cents, which he begged to keep as carfare, but the robber told him "walking's good." John Shuler, 19, of 2404 South Fourth street,
had nothing, for which he was cursed and instructed to "have something" next time. John Adams, 22, 2429 South Second street, surrendered $17, a watch and a knife.

At this point the robber evidently concluded he had performed a day's work, for when the Wyoming police arrived in answer to calls from the earlier victims, he had vanished.

Several Robberies and Holdups Reported to Police.

Charles Young, a grocer at 311
De Baliviere avenue, received a telephone order, yesterday afternoon,
from a man who gave his address
as an apartment house at 5528 Pershing boulevard. When the driver, Victor Francisconi, 19, 5976 Ridge avenue, arrived with the ordered goods a short time later, the pseudo customer was waiting for him. The "customer" climbed on the seat beside the driver, ordered him to drive a block away
and then, at the point of a revolver, robbed him of $25.

Vincent Russell, 4312 St. Louis avenue, a few doors from his home, at about 7:45 p. m., observed two armed robbers halt and leave a Ford coupe at the curb. As the robbers approached him, Russell,
who is an insurance collector,
clutched tightly at the roll of bills
he was carrying—containing $27.
When ordered to raise his hands,
the victim complied with the bills in his grasp. In another pocket were 12 silver dollars, which the robbers took. They overlooked the bills.

Two victims, last night, had to be treated at city hospital for injuries inflicted by robbers. Tony Yowks, 75, 1106 Franklin avenue, reported he was attacked by three men, in front of 1123 North Eleventh street, robbed of $150, and beaten. Jake Lowe, 50, 9 South Sixteenth street, reported two men attacked him at Fifteenth and Walnut streets, took $15 and then beat him.

Two negroes, one armed with a revolver and the other with a razor, held up Robert L. Clark, 1260
North Kingshighway, at Sixteenth and Morgan streets, about 11 p. m., and robbed him of $15 and his watch.

Negro purse snatchers, operating in the West End, robbed women in two instances, last night. In front of 4123 Delmar boulevard, two negroes attacked Mrs. Olivia Curtis, 4106 Delmar boulevard, while she and her 12-year-old daughter were returning from a movie, and snatched her purse, containing $1.85. A lone negro attacked Miss Mabel Calvin, 1102 South Eighth street, in front of 3826 West Pine boulevard, dragged her into an alley and held her with her purse, containing $5.

QUEEN'S VEIL LEADS STYLE

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 22.—Since publication of Dowager Queen Alex-
ty wearing a veil with her toque, manufacturers have noticed a decided demand for expensive chemise veiling and fashion experts foreshadow that all fashionable women will be veiled this spring.
The new veils are fine, and of the harem variety, covering only the eyes, the mesh and pattern are made to add lustre and mystery to baufull or even ordinary eyes.
Fashion experts say the smoking habit among women crippled the conventional veil trade, as it was difficult, if not dangerous, to wear a flowing veil around the hat while lighting or smoking a cigarette.

Pastor's Resignation Accepted.
A congregational meeting of the
Tyler Place Presbyterian Church,
Spring avenue and Russell boulevard, last night voted to accept the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Robert C. P. Williamson, for seven years pastor of the church. He has accepted a call to a Presbyterian church at East Montclair, N. J., and will leave about March 1. Dr. Williamson came here from Sedalia,

Is this the End of Falling Hair and Baldness?

4 in 7 Bald at 40
—91% needlessly, Investigation Shows!

Our experience shows falling hair and baldness most always due to Infected Scalp Oil (Sebum). Now usually overcome. Hair actually grown on 91 heads in 100.

Written Guarantee to Grow Hair

This is a direct offer to grow hair on your head. An offer backed by written guarantee, given by your own drug or department store. If we fail, it costs you nothing. Over 800,000 men have made this test in the last two years. Science has recently made amazing discoveries in hair treatment. We have proven that while 4 in 7 are either bald, or partly bald, at 40, only about nine in a hundred need never be bald. Hair roots seldom die from natural causes. They can be revived. We have proved this by regrowing hair on 91 heads in 100.

Highest authorities approve this new way. Great dermatologists now employ it—many charge as much as $300.00 for similar basic treatment. Baldness is a symptom of a disease. It is most frequently a symptom of infection of the scalp oil (Sebum).

Infected Sebum
Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to supply the hair with oil. But it often becomes infected. It clogs on the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Germs by the millions then start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness comes first; then comes total baldness. But remove that infection and your hair

PRIVATE QUARRY MACHINES BOUGHT WITH ROAD FUNDS

Senators Interpret Contracts to Provide for Payment of Rental by Stone Contractor.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—A peculiar use of State funds in private enterprise was presented to the Senate Investigating Committee late yesterday afternoon in the form of contracts entered into by the State Highway Department for obtaining crushed rock for use in road construction.

The interpretation placed on the contracts by Senator Farris, chairman, and Senator McCawley, both lawyers, was that the Highway Commission had invested $250,000 of State funds in equipment for two stone quarries, which were to be operated privately, the owner to pay rental to the Highway Commission at the rate of 20 cents for each ton of stone. At the end of a five-year period the owner of the quarries was to purchase the equipment from the State at its original cost, the rental he had paid in that time to apply on the purchase price.

Senator McCawley, who almost invariably is a defender of the Highway Commission, expressed surprise at the form of the contracts after the adjournment of the committee meeting.

"It appears," he said, "that the Highway Commission has made a private individual $250,000 of the State's funds for a period of five years without interest. Even at simple interest the value of this money for that period was $75,000. It certainly cannot be considered good business judgment."

The contract was made by the Highway Commission with E. Newton McDowell, formerly of St. Louis, but for several years a resident of Kansas City. McDowell obtained two stone quarries, one in Smithville, Clay County, and one in Gallatin, Daviess County. He contracted to furnish crushed rock from the quarries at $1.25 a ton.

It developed in the testimony of B. H. Piepmeyer, chief engineer of the commission, who produced the contracts on subpoena, that the Smithville quarry so far had proven unproductive of stone usable in road construction, and that only 10,278 tons had been received from the Gallatin quarry. Under the terms of the contract, McDowell agreed to have both quarries producing stone by June 1 last.

Piepmeyer testified that because of delays in the receipt of machinery, McDowell was granted an extension on his contract time, and that one quarry began production in September and the other in November.

The failure to get out stone at the time required and in the quantity demanded, he testified, made it necessary for the commission to purchase stone at a higher price from other quarries. The excess paid amounted to $15,000 which, he testified, the commission had charged up to McDowell.

Farris doubtful as to bond. McDowell gave bond for the execution of his contract and for the purchase of the equipment at the end of the five-year period, but Chairman Farris, after reading the contracts and bonds, expressed the opinion that there was considerable doubt that the surety on the bond could be held for the failure to produce the stone.

Piepmeyer's testimony was that about a week ago a demand had been made on McDowell and a copy of the demand had been sent to the surety company. He said no reply had been received.

While Piepmeyer admitted that the Smithville quarry stone was not usable as so far produced, he denied that all of the stone there was useless, explaining that the difficulty had been that there was clay and shale between the layers of rock, and that the quarry was not equipped with machinery to clean it. He said the cleaning machinery was being installed by McDowell at his own expense, and that ultimately usable stone would be produced.

JUDGE BAKER DENIES
CHARGES AGAINST HIM

Federal Jurist in West Virginia Accused of Drinking on Bench, Takes Stand.

By the Associated Press.
WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 22.—
A categorical denial of all charges against him was made by Judge
William E. Baker of the United States District Court of Northern West Virginia before a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee yesterday. The charges, several of which revolved about the Judge's alleged use of liquor while on the bench, his alleged acceptance of attorney's fees after his appointment to the Federal court and others of a similar nature, were brought by T. A. Brown, United States District Attorney, as a basis for possible impeachment proceedings. Taking of testimony by the subcommittee was concluded with yesterday's session.
Judge Baker was among the last witnesses called, denied generally and specifically the charges against him. Regarding the testimony of Walter D. Pierce, a special probation agent of Washington, that he saw Judge Baker under the influence of liquor in a Clarksburg hotel last April, the Judge read notes from his diary to show that he was not in the hotel on either of the two evenings Pierce named.
Judge Baker said he had kept a diary for many years but had been more particular about it for the past two and half years because at that time he was informed that he was "being framed."
Representative Dyer (Rep.) Missouri, chairman of the subcommittee, said no more testimony would be taken in West Virginia, and probably no more at all. The subcommittee will report to the full Judiciary Committee, which will then invite both Brown and Judge Baker and their counsel to appear in their cases. A recommendation then will be submitted to the House. It is hoped, Representative Dyer said, to have the whole matter disposed of before Congress adjourns on March 4.

SEATING OF MAYFIELD LIKELY
IN VIEW OF FAVORABLE REPORT
Senate Committee Upholds Election of Texas Democrat, Contested
by G. O. P. Opponent.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Without a dissenting voice the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections voted to recommend expiration of Senator Earl B. Mayfield of Texas on the election contest charges brought by George E.
B. Peddy, his Republican opponent in 1922. The subcommittee upheld Mayfield's right to his seat.
This action yesterday had been foreshadowed since the subcommittee recently opposed taking of further testimony on the activity of the Ku Klux Klan in accomplishing Mayfield's election.
The decision of the subcommittee will be presented to the full committee Friday and the probable outcome will be a report entitling him to his seat. Senators Snodgrass of Missouri, Ernst (Rep.) of New York, Watson (Rep.) of Indiana,
King (Dem.) of Utah and Neely (Dem.) of West Virginia were the members of the subcommittee who voted for Mayfield. The Senate probably will adopt the report.
Several volumes of testimony have been taken. Luther Nickels, counsel for Peddy, maintains that a clear case has been made out against Mayfield on the ground that he was unlawfully elected through excessive use of money and by acts of intimidation by the Klan, of which Mayfield had been a member.

ACTORS' CONVICTION REVERSED
By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Conviction of the producers of the play
"God of Vengeance" and 11 actors who took part in the production last year on a charge of violating the law against immoral drama, was reversed yesterday by the Court of Appeals and a new trial ordered. Harry Weinberger, the producer, and the 11 actors were indicted by a grand jury. Weinberger and Rudolph Schildkraut, leading man, were fined $200 each.
The reversal is based on the refusal of the trial judge to admit a copy of the play as evidence.

NEUTRODYNE for Distance

When the children are in bed and Father goes exploring—with NEUTRODYNE

The thrumming of a piano a thousand miles away.
The clear voice of a noted statesman coming from a thousand miles in some other direction. Now a singer—now an orchestra—

Through the vast night, countless impulses, passing, crossing, voices, music... "Distance if you want it"—that's Neutrodyne. If the waves are reaching your neighborhood, you'll get the program with a Neutrodyne, no matter how far away the station may be.

Picks them clean
Neutrodyne selectivity is one of the marvels of radio. Just as definitely as the telephone operator plugs in at a certain spot on the switchboard, so you turn your dials to predetermined numbers—and there's your station, provided that station is on the air at the moment. It works every time. No fishing around, once you have the stations charted.

The tonal quality of the Neutrodyne receivers has won the warmest praise of musicians everywhere.
The piping notes of the piccolo and the deep swelling tones of the pipe-organ are reproduced with a fidelity to the original that is unbelievable. The human voice sounds human on a Neutrodyne—not like the megaphoned overtones of the trainannouncer.

Nobody likes a squealer
Have you ever listened to radio that sounded like the bird-house at the zoo? Be assured, that wasn't a Neutrodyne set. For Neutrodyne cannot create those squawks and squeals that have kept music-lovers from investing in radio. If all receiving sets were Neutrodyne, there would be no more squealing.

Neutrodyne is noiseless. You'll appreciate its quiet, and so will the neighbors.

The thing you will like most about your Neutrodyne radio receiver is its absolute dependability.
It is the set of no regrets. It is the set of no apologies as well. You can get up a radio party and not wonder if your set is going to "act up" at a critical moment. You will not have to alibi with: "It never did that before!"

Neutrodyne made for modern broadcasting Neutrodyne was developed after modern broadcasting was established. The three other major receiving systems were invented previous to broadcasting. They were made first for dot-and-dash code (radio telegraphy) and adapted later to broadcasting. Neutrodyne was specifically designed to receive the broadcasting of music and speeches. It did not have to be "adapted."

In order to protect the public from fraudulent Neutrodyne, the Hazeltine Corporation was formed, and Professor Hazeltine, developer of Neutrodyne, entrusted his great idea to just fourteen hand-picked, licensed manufacturers. No other manufacturers may use the genuine Neutrodyne principle. Do not confuse NEUTRODYNE with any other "dyne."
Look for the Neutrodyne label on the set you buy.
Neutrodyne uses either wet or dry batteries, and either outdoor or indoor aerial.

NURMI ESTABLISHES HIS TENTH WORLD'S RECORD IN FIFTEEN DAYS

Fleet Finn Sets 2 New Marks in One Distance Run

New Time Recorded at 2 1/4 and 2 3/4 Miles in Newark Army.

Nurmi's New Records.

FOLLOWING are the achievements of Paavo Nurmi since his first competitive effort in this country on Jan. 6:

Distance	Time	Former, Nurmi's
1500 meters	4:01.3-5	3:58.1-5
One mile	4:14.3-5	4:13.2-5
2000 meters	5:44.3-5	5:44.3-5
1 1/2 miles	7:09.4-5	7:05.3-5
2000 meters	8:31.1-5	8:28.4-5
1 1/2 miles	8:31.1-5	8:29
1 1/2 miles	7:53.2-5	7:52.5-5
2 1/4 miles	10:42.1-5	10:42
2 3/4 miles	13:06.3-5	13:03

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The rolling, reaching stride of Paavo Nurmi carried on to two more world records on the 10-lap flat track of the First Regiment Army, Newark, N. J., last night, making 10 world's records he has established since Jan. 6, his first United States race.

Competing in a special two and three-quarter miles handicap with Gunnar Nilsson, national cross-country champion, Gus Fager, Metropolitan distance title holder, and Ilmar Prim—each conceded a 150-yard handicap, the phantom Finn, not only caught, but twice lapped the field and was clocked on the fifth of a second under the record at the two and one-quarter miles mark, and three and three-fifths seconds under the two and three-quarter miles figures.

Nurmi's time for the former was 10 minutes, 42 seconds, which surpasses Hannes Kolehmainen's record for the distance made in 1913. Beats record More Than 3 Seconds. Paavo's mark for the full distance of last night's race was 13 minutes 3 seconds, as compared with Kolehmainen's long standing mark of 15 minutes 6.5 seconds. The Finn missed the two and one-half mile record by a fraction of a second—possibly with the idea of saving that for some future showing.

It was the same familiar story of a superman competing against mere humans. The handicaps granted to Nurmi's rivals gave them a lead of nearly a full lap. They cut out a fast clip for a long distance jaunt, but even so Paavo was soon closing the gap which separated them and after a gradual lessening of the space he caught Prim on the fourteenth lap and one lap later swept past Nilsson and Fager.

Paavo was not content with simply leading these rivals. He had the records in mind and holding steadily to a pace calculated to bring him home within Kolehmainen's time he whirled the circuit faster and faster, catching Prim for the second time and nipping Nilsson and Fager once more before he breathed the tape with the new figures.

COX TO OPPOSE NURMI IN 3000-METER RACE

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—William Cox, Rochester (N. Y.) schoolboy runner, who was a finalist in the 1924 Olympic team, will be pitted against Paavo Nurmi in the 3000-meter special race featuring the Wilco A. A. games Feb. 7. Cox has shown excellent indoor form recently and is said to be at the distance of the Winter event.

Nurmi Enters Games.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's famous runner, yesterday entered for competition in the annual games of the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy the night of Feb. 16. He will run in the mile and three-quarters event.

PHILADELPHIA WANTS ST. LOUIS TO WITHDRAW ITS BID FOR REGATTA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—Philadelphia officials are consulting a nation-wide campaign to have the 1925 national championship regatta transferred from this country to Canada.

The campaign is part of the plan to hold a week's world championship rowing regatta in this city during the semi-centennial celebration of 1925.

It is believed that by holding the 1925 American championships in conjunction with the Canadian championships, the Canadian officials will agree to hold their titular regatta here during the 1925 celebration.

St. Louis has been the only city mentioned, thus far, as being an applicant for the national championships.

Jacob Karl of the Western Rowing Club, member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Amateur Rowers, said today that the Middle Western division would not act upon the suggestion of Philadelphia officials until Feb. 14, when the Central States and the Southwestern Associations meet in this city.

The bid for the national championship regatta of 1925 was submitted by Karl at the national regatta last summer. No award has yet been made. If the regatta is awarded to this district, either St. Louis or Peoria will hold the event.

Scholz Not Yet Ready to Retire

St. Louis Athlete, Olympic and National Champion, Plans One More Campaign.

By Dent McKimming.

JACKSON V. SCHOLZ, former St. Louis boy and now holder of the world's spring record for 200 meters, was in St. Louis yesterday visiting friends and relatives. He has just returned from a tour of the Orient where he appeared with three other Olympic athletes in a series of track and field meets.

"In spite of the fact that they are handicapped by their peculiarly short stature," said Scholz, "the Japanese boys are making fine strides in athletics and I believe it will be only a few years before we hear from them."

"They have two very good sprinters in Japan now, one of them a school boy about 20, who has ability and form."

Dedicated Japanese Stadium.

"The special occasion of our visit was the dedication of the new stadium at Tokyo. The structure compares very favorably with our big athletic fields and is built to accommodate about 50,000 persons. The running track and the field were in excellent condition. We were enthusiastically received by the Japanese in each of our appearances. We competed in about a half dozen meets, most of them held by schools and colleges in various parts of the empire. One meet was held at the Japanese Naval Academy grounds, at Hiroshima."

Plans to Write Story of Tour.

"However, track activity is not my sole aim. I am devoting much time to writing, especially on the subject of athletics. My recent trip to Japan was made for a two-fold purpose. I was to add to the Japanese in their efforts to improve their status in world athletics and another was to gather material for my articles. I have at hand about 15,000 words prepared for publication. By continuing as an active competitor on the track I am kept in close contact with the source of material for writing. Thus, I am not now considering retiring."

Harry Uhlemeyer Dies at Age of 32

Member of Boxing Commission and Former President of South Broadway A. C.

HARRY W. UHLEMEYER, Alderman, member of the City Boxing Commission, and former president of the South Broadway Athletic Club, died at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium late yesterday afternoon. Death was due to cancer of the stomach, said to have been superinduced by an injury suffered in a wrestling match several years ago.

Uhlemeyer was 32 years old. He was finishing his first term of four years as an Alderman and would have been a candidate for re-election in the spring.

Although Uhlemeyer suffered from the effects of his illness for about a year, he was not confined to a hospital until Nov. 4, last.

Uhlemeyer's interest in sports was so great that he arranged to be taken in an ambulance, accompanied by two nurses and a doctor, to a wrestling program at the Coliseum on the night of Jan. 6.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Ziegenhain Brothers' chapel at 2623 Cherokee street, to Valhalla Cemetery.

Uhlemeyer is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emily Caroline Uhlemeyer; a daughter, Vivian; his father, Gustav Uhlemeyer; three brothers, Fred, William and Elmer; and one sister, Mrs. Reada Lutke. A son, Harry, died last March.

PIKERS WILL OPPOSE DRAKE FIVE IN VALLEY TITLE GAME TOMORROW

The Piker basketball team will play its second conference game when the Drake University five is met at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Play starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Taking into consideration previous performance of the two teams this season, the invading Bulldogs are due for a trimming. The Bulldogs have played four conference games and were badly beaten in three. Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri turned the trick.

Mohawk Pal Is Outstanding Dog In Title Trials

Handles Four Bevises Without an Error in National Championship Stake.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
GRAND JUNCTION, Jan. 22.—The third day's contest in the national championship trials for dogs brought out several interesting and unique features, but out of the 12 dogs that have thus far run their three-hour heats, none stands out so far as to make his race unbeatable. On the whole, the exhibition of championship class thus far been rather ordinary. Eight more dogs are to run.

Yesterday morning the point, Prairie Jack, owned by F. R. King of Tulsa, Ok., ran against the setter, Faced, Mohawk Pal, owned by E. M. Tuttle of Birmingham, Ala. Prairie Jack covered considerable country, but did not handle as well as he should. His mound only one boy and three singles. The matter of bird finding, Mohawk Pal was far his superior. He found four bevises which he handled without an error and while he did not go so fast or so wide point. Much was expected of Muscle Shoals, Tex., and the setter, Umpire's Decision, owned by R. V. Nallin, the American League umpire of Frederick, Md. The dogs broke a record in the first round of performance, but in their handling of free-for-all stakes in Alabama on two occasions.

The dogs to run on this morning are the pointer, Beaky Brown, owned by L. L. Hargis of Lexington, Ky., and the setter, Inquisitive Tail, owned by C. W. Campbell of Tulsa, Ok. Beaky has won the championship on the year at the head standing, providing he does not meet with an accident, suspension, which would keep him out of the saddle any length of time.

Turf Experts Say He Is One of the Best Judges of Paces Seen in Many a Day.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—"One of the best judges of paces in many a day and a thing to develop into a great rider is what horsemen are saying Willie Harvey, wee Canadian, who has set the turf world a with his sensational form at Fair Grounds in New Orleans. Last Saturday Harvey won three consecutive races and finished second once out of seven mounts which was his best day since being inaugurated in the Cent City Thoroughbred day."

Seven times the diminutive "head" has piloted three winners in an afternoon and his riding has been as impressive that M. Goldblatt offered Carey Wins to whom Harvey is under contract $20,000 for the papers he holds the lad. There are few bidders of jockey prospects here. It was Goldblatt who signed Ivan Parke and Johnny Corcoran for Whitney, and now that wealthy Easterners are without apprentice rider he's after services of Willie.

Started at New Orleans.

It was in New Orleans that Canadian lad first donned silks to ride in a race last season. He was just a green "kid" and was not taken seriously. However, upon his return to New Orleans he was a riding demon and now occupies the position enjoyed by Ivan Parke last season. Present Harvey is leading the list of American riders and bids fair to finish out the year at the head of the standing, providing he does not meet with an accident, suspension, which would keep him out of the saddle any length of time.

Turf Experts Say He Is One of the Best Judges of Pace Seen in Many a Day.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—"One of the best judges of pace seen in many a day and a sure thing to develop into a great rider," is what horsemen are saying of Willie Harvey, the Canadian lad, who has set the turf world agog with his sensational form at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans. Last Saturday Harvey won four consecutive races, and finished second once out of seven mounts, which was his best day since racing was inaugurated in the Crescent City Thanksgiving day.

Seven times the diminutive "red head" has piloted three winners in as many races, and his riding has been so impressive that Moss Goldblatt offered Carey Winfrey, to whom Harvey is under contract, $20,000 for the papers he holds on the lad. There are few better judges of jockey prospects than Moss. It was Goldblatt who signed Ivan Parke and Johnny Corcoran for Whitney, and now that the wealthy Easterner has without an apprentice rider he's after the services of Willie.

There has never been any occasion for the stewards to suspend Harvey for "roughing" in order to get his mount home the winner.

The action followed a request from Fred Cady, coach of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, that Mrs. Pinkston be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Southern Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union. The suspension, it was said, will stand until she files the account and apolies for reinstatement.

Soldan Defeated By Madison, 17-10

Game Unusually Rough Because of Cramped Playing Space at Soldan Gymnasium.

The Madison, Ill., High School basketball team added another local prep school five to its list of victims by defeating Soldan at the Soldan gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The score was 17 to 10.

Because of the limited area of the playing floor, personal contact was unavoidable and the game became a very rough affair with goals at a premium. Soldan had 17 free shots from the foul line but failed dismally, scoring only two shots. Soldan players were charged with only five fouls.

The Madison combination defeated Central early in the season. Cleveland defeated the Illinois team after an extra-period struggle.

WILLIE HOPPE HURTS RIGHT ARM IN FALL ON ICE; STOPS PRACTICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Willie Hoppe, world's champion billiardist, will be laid up for a week at least, it was learned today, owing to injury. Hoppe slipped on an icy pavement several days ago, sustaining a severe laceration of the right arm just below the elbow.

The injury will interfere with the champion's preparations for defending his title in the international 18.2 ball game championship beginning at Chicago on Feb. 22.

They Broke the Mold.

FIFTEEN years ago Billy was a hall fellow. He was active in all branches of sport, covered stories himself and cultivated a wide acquaintance.

Then he disappeared—went indoors and began the long grind that ultimately wrecked him. Besides the job, the one thing Billy worked for was to educate his son, Russell—and he did. He put him over big, too, both at St. Louis University and later at Yale. At both places Russell distinguished himself in baseball and football, and later graduated.

That Murphy survived to see his son honored at school and established in his career was the only reward for his long self-sacrifice.

That will record the final not only of a master of polished English and a friend of all manner of sports and sporting people, but of a loyal worker who toiled in the vineyard for the love of it, rather than for what he got out of the game.

A few hundreds of life insurance companies and a son educated in two universities is all that Billy left to show for devotion to duty that is most unusual in this eternal scramble for the dollar sign.

FARMERS ADVOCATE MODIFIED McNARY-HAUGEN RELIEF BILL

Joint Committee of Senate and House Committee Asked to Indorse New Measure

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The American Council of Agriculture is endeavoring to obtain indorsement by the farm group in Congress and early enactment of a modified McNary-Haugen farm relief measure sponsored by the organization.

Representatives of the council presented arguments in favor of the modified bill at a joint meeting of the Senate and House Agriculture committees, after appearing in its support before the President's agriculture commission.

The committee was told that the bill, which follows the lines of the original McNary-Haugen measure, which was defeated in the House at the last session, contained none of what was considered objectionable in that measure. Not only will the tariff law not be affected by the new measure, the spokesmen contended, but the price ratio provisions of the first bill, which provoked the chief opposition as a price-fixing scheme, have been stricken out.

A farm export corporation would be organized and financed by an advance of $50,000,000 from the War Finance Corporation, to be reimbursed by commission charges for handling farm commodities. The purpose of the bill would be to divert surplus American farm products into the foreign trade in prices profitable to the producers. The council was represented by George N. Peek, chairman of the committee; Charles E. Hearst, president of the Farm Bureau Federation; William Hirth, Missouri Farmers' Association; S. H. Thompson, president of the National Livestock Producers Association.

COUNTLESS ESTERHazy TOO POOR TO WED OSTENBURG

Estates of Both Confiscated by Austrian Government, Says Brokers Engagement

Courtesy, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and Sun.
BUDAPEST, Jan. 22.—Countess Louise Esterhazy has broken her engagement to Col. Ostenburg, leader of the conspiracy to restore the late Emperor Charles to the throne of Hungary. From the Pressburg fall, where the Countess is confined, for plotting against Czechoslovakia, she announced that she was too poor herself to marry her impoverished fiancé. Her estates and his were confiscated by the Austrian government following the attempted Carlist coup, in which both participated.

Countess Esterhazy says she must marry a rich man as soon as she gets out of jail. She has received a number of proposals from wealthy suitors, sent to her by letter since she has been in jail. She declines he cannot decide which to accept.

Col. Ostenburg himself is so poor that he has not been able to pay the fee of the lawyer to defend him. This amounts to about $4000. The Countess offered her family jewels as security, but the jewels and the three horses seized on her estate were not sufficient.

How seven words saved the reputation of the most famous hotel in the old south

ANTOINE, the French chef from New Orleans, was almost in tears. Complaints had come from the dining room. It was unheard of!

Back in those days when our grandmothers were wearing bustles, the old Maxwell House of Nashville was already celebrated throughout the whole South for its delicious food.

And now its reputation was at stake. Criticism had been aimed at the one thing nearest Antoine's heart—his coffee. What was wrong? Mr. Black, manager of the Maxwell House was waiting for an answer.

A reply that has made history

"Ze ozer coffee you bought was better," said Antoine to Mr. Black.

And with these seven words, Mr. Black began to see light. The "other coffee"—of course! The special blend, wonderfully rich and mellow, which he had agreed to try! He had forgotten to reorder it. And now the guests had missed it and were complaining.

Mr. Black acted promptly. From that day on, this one blend of fine coffees, which the guests had liked so well, was always served at the Maxwell House.

As the fame of this fine old hotel spread through the country, the reputation of its coffee grew also. In city after city, those who most appreciate the best things of life have secured this blend for their own tables.

And the same man who perfected it years ago, Joel Cheek himself, still supervises with his associates the blending and roasting of it today. The same coffee that roused the enthusiasm of the old South years ago, is now on sale in sealed tins at all better grocery stores.

Its rare flavor and rich aroma are offered to your family. Don't wait longer before trying it. Ask your grocer today for one of the blue tins of Maxwell House Coffee.

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

"THERE," cried Flora Lee triumphantly. "Admah wants you to stay."

"Well, I didn't exactly say that—I just said—why, of course, I want her to stay."

There was no reproach in the still gaze which Margaret turned upon his floundering. But Flora Lee grew more animated.

"Admah will have everything arranged for you," she went on sparklingly. "Maybe he can fix you a studio in the garage so you won't ever have to go to town."

Margaret flushed suddenly, a hot, insulted red. She opened her mouth to speak and Admah, in the thankless role of peacemaker, found himself interrupting with a series of feeble sounds like, "please don't!"

"Please don't what?" asked Flora Lee. "Please don't go? Is that what you mean?"

"No, I didn't. I meant—"

"Good-by," said Margaret very gently and went out of the room. Dumb and somehow outraged, he watched her go down the stairs. Then turning to Flora Lee he saw her eyes winking him, her arms outstretched. Obeyingly her puppet, he knelt while she entwined his neck and passed her fingers through his hair.

"Take her to town," she begged. "I can't have her in my house. How does she dare stand there and talk to me like that?"

Margaret had said six words and, as Admah recalled them, they were not of an inflammatory nature.

CHAPTER 73.

According to Admah's calendar everything was dated forward to June 15 and the annual elections. Flora Lee had quarreled with her sister on the 12th, and that was but three days before two important meetings, to be held in the offices of the Principality Trust Co. In the morning the stockholders would elect a new board of directors for the T. & P.; in the afternoon the directors would elect officers. Since Flora Lee's sudden illness Admah had lived in turmoil, affairs at home and affairs at the works warring one against the other. Bentley was plotting for his throne; Flora Lee was disregarding her doctor's orders; Col. Atterbury had made himself inaccessible; so had Margaret Peake. During those days he missed Margaret and wondered vaguely. That morning when he had taken her into town she had said a queer thing as he bade her good-by in the lobby of her apartment house. "Poor Admah!" she had whispered and covered his hand with her own. What had she meant by that?

Poor Admah he might have been at home, but certainly not in his office. He had found his enemies now and the method of their attack was new. They had come to him in person, they had talked to him in person. They would sit in meeting watching him. Atterbury's thumbs, he felt they twiddled up an officer would be retained; if they twiddled down, off with his head! And Admah Holtz had no intention of losing his head on the afternoon of June 15. If some go about talking their heads off there are others who, upon occasion, can talk them on. In spite of Sim Canfield's busy tattling and the gesticulations which Gen. Bentley called an "intensive campaign," Admah knew that Atterbury realized how little these men had to offer. Holtz understood the T. & P. He had lifted it from the neck once, he had done it again; and since Atterbury did not make or break men for sentiment's sake, Admah saw his way clear. He had but to appear in person at the meeting on the 15th and give his reasons why he should continue as president of the T. & P.

But the morning of the 14th, when his concern should have been public rather than private, he found a handsome gray envelope in his breakfast mail. As it was engraved with the name of Cummins & Co., he knew it had to do with Flora Lee's bracelet. He refused to open it; it annoyed him like some bad luck token, but he kept it in his pocket, pretending that it amounted to nothing.

Col. Atterbury's return from his Eastern trip was made manifest to Admah when he saw the old gentleman before luncheon at the Pickwick Club; they met in a crowd and Col. Atterbury's greeting was cordial. A good auspice for the morning. More suspicious still, Bentley, his curly hair wild as a wind-blown cypress, had entered Admah's office that morning and offered to make peace. He had never dreamed of the presidency, said Bentley; all he wanted was a small raise of salary. Wearing a straight face to mask his inward glee, Admah promised the bribe and regained a friend. But what was in the air?

After luncheon, cheered by favorable signs, he went into the club library, opened Cummins' gray envelope and read:

"In re diamond and platinum bracelet sent to your address on approval on the 5th inst., we take the liberty of asking if the article was found satisfactory to Mrs. Holtz. If not, would you be so kind as to inform us, as another customer has inquired after it."

This, in the language of trade, was a civil demand to pay or return the goods. But it meant more than that. It meant that the city was no longer trusting Admah Holtz. It meant that Admah Holtz, whose credit should not have been questioned at this crisis, had purchased what he couldn't pay for.

In the cool quiet of the big brown library he lit a cigar and relaxed himself against the leather cushions of his chair. He tried to think this out, this comparatively simple problem. Somebody had been talking to Cummins. One of the Canfield crowd. As a grandstand play he ought to march right over to Cummins, sign a check, close his account, swear and walk out. But he hadn't the ready money to back such a gesture. And on a day like this he couldn't afford to go round selling stock or borrowing.

Heigho! How his bones ached! He slid down in his chair and allowed himself to know how tired he was. He had felt like this once 20 years ago when the river was high and he had tried to swim upstream to catch the stern of a coal barge. "Heigho!" Just a few weeks' rest. . . . He'd been driving pretty hard . . . pretty hard. . . .

Thunder growled in his ear and he awoke to find that he had been snoring. His unaccustomed nap had brought on a headache—another one of those damned things. He'd have to do something about those headaches. If you keep on taking patent drink for them you're liable to weaken your heart, he reflected dimly. He had gone to sleep with a lighted cigar in his mouth and it had turned into a foul cinder. He looked at his watch. Gosh! He'd been asleep nearly an hour.

At the prohibitive bar he ordered another patent drink. Queried that he'd fallen off like that right in the middle of the day! Sort of an old man trick—certainly he hadn't reached the age for that! He felt stupidly by the bar, feeling his sore muscles. Then again he thought of Cummins' letter. He could see only one way out of the bracelet situation, now that his mind was going again. He'd have to coax the thing away from Flora Lee. Gosh, how he hated to do that. She loved it so, and she'd been so tender with him when he gave it to her. But he'd make her understand.

Attempting to soothe himself with bits of philosophy which, like the fizzy drink, gave temporary relief, he made his way through the suburbs and out toward the River Boulevard. He had telephoned his secretary that he wouldn't be back. What was the use fooling round the office, he thought, when he needed rest and a chance to save his strength for the big fight tomorrow? Something simple and easy was what he wanted. Only there was that business about the bracelet. He hoped that Flora Lee would be reasonable.

CHAPTER 74.

Rolling up the winding drive toward his big white house Admah experienced the feeling of elation which would come to him at unexpected moments, lending a rose-glow of optimism to every prospect. For him the pink June roses were beginning to open on their trellises and the baby blue hydrangeas to blossom in their tubs. The whole place had a rich air, a princely air; rolled lawns, trimmed hedges, precisely graveled roads. Here was a gentleman's home. Such a home as the Peakes would have been proud of in the days when they had plenty of money and slaves to indulge their indolence. But the Peakes—sometimes he treated himself to this triumphant reflection—had gone to sleep on the job, let the property run down. Not so Admah Holtz. He had fought every inch of the way. Who was it that told him that? Margaret, perhaps. . . .

At the formal front door he leaped from his car as lightly as though the fat of middle age were not upon him, as though tomorrow's battle were already won. He gave his hat to Calvin and made some blundering joke about taking his half holiday. The mulatto man grinned appreciatively and showed his new gold teeth as he repeated his formula. "Yassa, Mist' Holtz. Yassa sub!"

On his way upstairs Admah had formulated a plan. When the election was over and he was safely in saddle again he'd give Flora Lee a big party. A bigger one than the riotous house-warming with which they had opened their fine new place. He might find some way of buying back the bracelet, slipping it on her wrist as a surprise.

At the first landing he saw old Linda, standing like a skeleton carved out of an ebony pole. She had been in charge since Miss Sullivan's departure.

"Is Miss Flora Lee awake?" he asked.

"No, sah, Mist' Holtz," replied old Linda grimly; unlike Calvin, she had never received Admah into the Peake family.

Her manner chilled his spirit a little, brought him back to the delicate business at hand. His step had lost its spring as he went down the velvet carpet of the corridor, walking cautiously lest his adored one might be nodding, might resent his clumsy tread. He had just turned into the I. leading to her room when his progress was arrested by unexpected sounds: Flora Lee's pretty, excited laughter, then the mumble-mumble of a man's voice. She was having company. Why had Linda said she was asleep?

A few steps further and he found himself looking into her room. It was only a glance, but a comprehensive eye-full which, like the shutter of a rapid camera, takes in unexpected details.

First he saw the coverlet on her bed; that fancy French thing, embroidered with hounds and swans and pheasants whose coarse significance, only vaguely comprehended, he had always hated. Sitting up among foamy pillows, her little head outlined in a lacy cap, her lips parted in an eager smile, Flora Lee was looking into the eyes of Hunter O'Neill. He, too, was smiling; his face, like hers, was quick with pleasure.

That was a flash. A flash, an instant later both had seen the shadow in the door. Their bodies had sprung into attitudes of self-conscious innocence. "Hello, Admah!" both were drawing casually, frightened perhaps at his look. What had he seen? Nothing. Yet suddenly the hate in his brain seemed to liven and sizzle scaldingly like frying lard. He had seen nothing. Yet he knew. Flora Lee and Hunter O'Neill had just kissed.

His first impulse was to fall upon O'Neill and come to grips dog-fashion, doing murder honestly in the presence of murder's cause. Instead he sat down and said nothing about the day being hot. He was unusually dull in his conversation, and all the time his inner mind was asking: If she feels that way about him, what can I do but make things worse?

CHAPTER 75.

After that he went to his room. Without removing the shoes from his feet or the coverlet from his bed he had thrown himself down and succumbed to the ache in his muscles. At dinner time Calvin's knock awoke him, and he went to his wife's room to find her cheerfully dining off a tray. She held up her mouth to be kissed and wanted to know why he was such a bear with poor Huntie. He complained of his headache, she called him an Old Grounder to be working so hard when everybody else was up in Maine, keeping cool. Why couldn't they take the McCoy cottage at Bar Harbor?

Charmingly she made it impossible for him to believe what he knew.

Finally he went down to dinner, where he ate sparingly and drank much. In the quick reverie which comes upon the solitary drinker he wished that he had not let Margaret go; but what could he do when Flora Lee, sick and nervous, wanted her sister out of the house? The practical side of Admah's character came to the rescue and he banished O'Neill with a gesture. It couldn't be possible that Flora Lee, who had run around with kings and dukes in the Old Country could see anything in that poor flash. Certainly not.

Whenever it meant, thought Admah, he couldn't afford to have a family row tonight. For the last two weeks he had been holding on to his nerves like a swimmer to a raft. One at a time, that was his motto. First he'd settle with Sim Canfield, then with the rest of the Judas Iscariot Club down at the office. Then O'Neill's turn would come round, and the skunk would have to face the biggest man in the State instead of a dummy president, fighting for his job.

An Early Morning EXERCISE

By LUCREZIA BORI

ARE you in the best possible physical condition, so that your appearance does you credit, and so you are able to discharge your daily duties in the most efficient way?

LUCREZIA BORI

I am sure every woman takes sufficient pride in her appearance to want to look her best at all times. She knows that when she looks healthy and bright and alert and when her hair is well arranged and her clothes attractive, that she feels better in every way.

There is nothing more disconcerting than to know that one's pallor or lusterless eyes give away the state of one's feelings. For if there must be days on which we do not feel our best, at least we should like to look well.

But long experience has taught us all that physical beauty and health must go hand in hand. The only possible thing to do is to work for health and to know that a general improvement in your appearance will naturally follow.

It may be that you have wished for a long time that your eyes were as deep and sparkling as the eyes of some friend you had in mind. Perhaps your eyes would come much nearer achieving this state of perfection if you allowed yourself longer hours of sleep. Perhaps you average eight hours of sleep each night. You might try averaging nine hours of sleep and see if this makes an improvement in the sparkle and the general beauty of your eyes.

But the main point I want to speak of today is exercise. Do you know that three or four good exercises, indulged in when you first get out of bed in the morning, will be quite as beneficial to you in their results as the most elaborate and complicated of sports can be?

The main beauty principle I want to impress with all the emphasis possible is that you have a repertoire of about four good exercises that you like to do, and that you perform them vigorously for about ten minutes when you first get out of bed in the morning.

That was a flash. A flash, an instant later both had seen the shadow in the door. Their bodies had sprung into attitudes of self-conscious innocence. "Hello, Admah!" both were drawing casually, frightened perhaps at his look. What had he seen? Nothing. Yet suddenly the hate in his brain seemed to liven and sizzle scaldingly like frying lard. FLAT VELVET FLOWER MOTIFS

By Janet Winslow

SINCE trimmings are so delicately done, they count for more than ever. It is just the one spot of trimming that must go a long way for appearance's sake and not, in any manner, allow itself to sink into the background.

Have you noticed in this connection the prevalence of the flat velvet flower motif? Well, if you keep your eyes open and observe the modern gowns you will see that this one piece of trimming often is the note that makes the gown. And, many times, it is so artistically handled that you almost fail to realize its vast importance in the design of the frock as a whole.

But it is so dominant a factor that, were it removed entirely, the frock would be apt to look like nothing at all—most of its style evaporated, all of its snap passed away.

One dress designed for dancing or some informal sort of evening wear had a full skirt and around the edge of the hem extending up-

FAMOUS WOMEN

MARIA ELENA PANZACCHIA.

MARIA ELENA PANZACCHIA was born in Bologna in 1668 of a noble family. She learned designing under Emilio Taruffi and in a few years acquired great readiness in composition, correctness of outline and a lovely tint of coloring. Besides history she also excelled in painting landscapes and by the beauty of her situations and distances allured and entertained the eyes of every beholder. The figures which she inserted had abundance of grace; she designed them with becoming attitudes and gave them a lively and natural expression. Her merit was acknowledged and her work was so much praised as to be exceedingly scarce and difficult to find outside of Bologna. She died in 1749.

Believe if you will that mountains change their places, but believe not that men change their dispositions.

Table Talk.
TALKING is a strong bearing on the system. A man, suffering from an acute attack of indigestion, claimed: "I should have better than to continue when I became so angry."
Cheerful conversation is good for the digestion, so why are emotions that retard or function? Illness, accidents, deaths should be taboo topics in a meal. Hard luck should be avoided and household troubles should be discussed at the table.
Criticism, fault finding, scolding are exceedingly bad for the appetite and digestion, especially when directed to children. Telling Dad about Junior's behavior had better be until after dinner. Bad news never be told during the meal.
In fact, all painful subjects disagreeable discussions should be avoided. The rule and common interest should be for table talk. Let the conversation be general and frequent such nature that the children take part.

What should a Stenographer eat for breakfast?

NOT only the stenographer, but all persons whose work requires them to sit still most of the day, should eat plenty of oranges and grapefruit.
One of the greatest health authorities recently published the statement that oranges and grapefruit are not luxuries, but—"There is ample ground for regarding them as necessities, not only in health but especially where the blood tends to lose its 'alkali reserve.' This, in the sedentary," he wrote, "is a constant menace."

AND STILL WE LOVE THEM.
THE greatest shock of a man's life is to read his wedding announcement, fresh from the printer's, and realize that his last loophole to liberty has been closed, forever.

The average man need look no further for a real change of scene than to spend a whole holiday in his own house.

A woman's love springs to life—but a man's love has to be incubated with care, patience, and untiring vigilance.

A bride is heartbroken if her husband forgets to kiss her good-bye, but a seasoned wife feels that the day has started perfectly if he just goes out without slamming the front door after him.

A broad-minded woman may forgive a man for his little deflections of heart—but somehow, it takes all the glamour off her love to realize that she is only one of a large competitive class.

The girl who marries a man out of a bachelor-flat is regarded as a deliverer, but the girl who marries him out of a comfortable home is looked upon as a deliberate housebreaker.

There is a funny sort of "conscience" that sometimes makes a thief return a woman's pocketbook and a man return a woman's heart, when he has emptied it of everything worth-while.

The ideal husband is the ex-boarder house sort, who has never had any dotting mother or sisters to teach him where to look for the dust, the cobwebs and the flaws in a woman's housekeeping.

A man's idea of the perfect woman is one who, like the collarband to his shirt, contains just enough starch to indicate character, yet is perfectly pliable and easily bent.

The fact that a man's path is strewn with the ashes of his dead loves, somehow, never seems to prevent him from skidding right into love again.

PHILOSOPHICAL PHRASINGS

What frenzy dictates jealousy? All spirits are enslaved which serve things evil. Our own felicity we make or find.

The only present love demands is love. A little mind courts notoriety, to illustrate its puny self.

There is no wisdom in useless and hopeless sorrow. Life is a fatal complaint, and an eminently contagious one.

To him that lives well every form of life is good. True joy is a serene and sober motion, and they are miserably out that take laughing for rejoicing. The seat of it is within, and there is no cheerfulness like the resolutions of a brave mind.

Upon the character of our home life must rest the well-being of our nation, and the permanence of all our institutions.

A needless victim of Pyorrhea

She alone knows the penalty

Tooth neglect demands its toll

Just as a ship needs the closest attention under the water-line, so do your teeth under the gum-line

Pyorrhea is a disease of the gums—not the teeth

That's one outstanding fact everybody should know. And if everybody did know it, the number of Pyorrhea's victims would soon be greatly reduced.

You may take splendid care of your teeth—brush them several times a day—and still get Pyorrhea. Once Pyorrhea secures a firm hold, pus pockets form, gums become weak and flabby, the teeth loosen and fall out no matter how white and sound they may be.

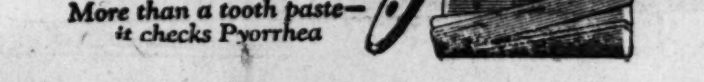

Forhan's means healthy gums

It contains the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent, as used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea. Forhan's protects and preserves the gums, keeping them in a firm, pink, healthy condition, cleans and whitens the teeth, and keeps the mouth sweet, fresh and wholesome. If you don't care to discontinue the tooth paste you are now using, at least brush your teeth and gums once a day with Forhan's. Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

Peter Becomes Really Anxious

PETER RABBIT was free, but just the same he was a prisoner. He was free because he could leave the little bramble-tangle in which he was hiding whenever he pleased. He was a prisoner because he didn't dare leave that little bramble-tangle. All night Hooty the Owl had watched that bramble-tangle ready to pounce on Peter the instant he left it. Peter had thought that with the coming of day he would have a chance to get away, but hardly had Hooty given up and gone to spend the day in a dark place when Terror the Goshawk took his place and watched that bramble-tangle.

Several times Terror flew away to hunt for food, but he never went far. Peter didn't dare leave the bramble-tangle while there was any chance that Terror might be near. Each time Terror returned and resumed watch. Twice during the day Reddy Fox came and peered into the bramble-tangle.

A little before shadow time Terror the Goshawk flew away and Peter knew by the way in which he flew that he had gone for good. With a little sigh of thankfulness Peter prepared to leave the bramble-tangle. He had just poked his head outside and was looking this way and that way when Hooty the Owl arrived on his watch tower again. Peter saw him just in time and hurriedly drew back.

"Oh, dear," whimpered Peter, "I wonder if that fellow is going to keep me here another night. I'll starve to death if I can't get out of here soon. It was bad enough over in the dear Old Briar through the brambles and see me sitting here. If only I could hide they might think that somehow I had managed to get away, and then they would stop watching."

Then Peter really began to use his wits. He began to look about for some means of getting out of sight. He crept under where the brambles were thickest, but it didn't take him long to find out that even there he could still be seen by sharp eyes. He hunted all through that little bramble-tangle, but there wasn't a place in it where he couldn't be seen.

"It's of no use," said Peter, "I can't hide and that's all there is to it." And right then he thought of something. He thought of a way of hiding that was so simple he couldn't understand why he hadn't thought of it before.

"I guess I must be getting stupid. I guess my wits must have been asleep," muttered Peter.

Patch, but it is worse here. My those fellows must be hungry to be so patient. They must want me very much indeed. If Hooty keeps watch all tonight and Terror comes back tomorrow morning, I don't see how I am ever going to get away from here. If only I had a white coat like my cousin, Jumper the Hare, I might have some chance. But without any leaves on the brambles I am in plain sight all the time. Those fellows can look right down

AN IMPROVEMENT ON THE JAMES BOYS.

MY friend St. O. Muldrow, who lives in Arkansas, stands sponsor for the authenticity of the following bit of native folklore: He says a clerical-looking person was driving through the foothills of the Ozarks down in his State when he came to a typical mountain cabin. An elderly man was chopping wood in the dooryard. The traveler halted his team and hailed the resident. The latter dropped his ax and ambled across to the snake fence which guarded the front of his property and rested his arms upon the top rail. "Good morning," said the stranger. "Howdy do. Won't you light?" "No, thank you. I'm passing through this country selling books." "Books, huh?" said the hillman. "Well, I reckon there ain't no chance for you to make a trade here. We've already got a book. Leastwise, my son Jim has. I don't read, myself, but Jim does. So he's got a book—an outlaw book." "A what?" "An outlaw book. All about the James Brothers—Jesse and Frank." "And is that the only book your house contains?" asked the shocked canvasser. "Ain't one enough?" countered the native. "Well, now look here," said the agent who, it seems, was also an itinerant evangelist from the North, "here's a book that I'm going to leave with you. You tell your son to look it over at his leisure. I'll be coming back this way in a couple of weeks and I'll stop by and if Jim likes the book he can pay for it and if he has no money I'll make him a present of it out of my own pocket." So saying, he placed in the old man's hands a copy of the Bible. In the following week he returned. Again the mountaineer met him at the fence. "Well, sir," he stated, "Jim's gone to keep your book. Here the other night some of the neighbors came over the ridge to visit with us a spell and Jim taken her down off the shelf and read a piece whar it tells where that feller Sampson whupped all the Phillips boys. Say, it beat anything the James gang ever did do!"

A FEAST FOR THE SOUL ONLY.

THE menu was printed in French but the self-made millionaire who'd come in for dinner did not intend to admit his lack of acquaintance with foreign tongues. He took the bill of fare in his hands and studied it with an air of great intension. Then he aimed a stout forefinger at a certain item near the top of the card and to the waiter who was bending over his shoulder he said: "To start off with, I'll take some of that!" "I'm sorry, sir," said the waiter, "but the orchestra is playing that."

VAN GRAAFEILAND IS FINED $8500 IN "BLUE SKY" CASE

Convicted of Attempting to Sell Bonds Without License and Failing to Register With State.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL TO BE FILED

Another Charge Pending Against Former Head of Riverview Club Set for Hearing Feb. 16.

Charles P. Van Graafeiland, of broker, capitalist and former president of the Riverview Club, was found guilty by a jury in the Court of Criminal Correction today of two charges of attempted violation of the State "blue sky" law, and fined a total of $8500. The jury was out an hour and 25 minutes. The two charges were attempted sale of bonds without a license and failure to register with the State Finance Department. On the first count the penalty was a fine of $3500, and on the second $5000. The maximum punishment possible in either was $8000 fine and 90 days in jail, but no jail sentence was imposed. Charles A. Houtz, defense attorney, announced he would file a motion for a new trial, and in case it is denied, appeal the case to the St. Louis Court of Appeals. Another charge of acting as a broker without a broker's license is pending against Van Graafeiland, and was set for trial on Feb. 16.

Headed Two Firms.

The case, in which Herman Spoehrer, secretary of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., was the prosecuting witness, was based upon Van Graafeiland's alleged sale of securities of the Perpetual Royalty Corporation for sale through the Van Luman Co., a corporation previously organized to sell stock of the Marigold Oil Co. Van Graafeiland, who lives at 2509 Southmore, Clayton, and was president of the Riverview Club until last October, was president of both the Perpetual and Van Luman companies, the name of the latter concern having been formed from his name and the names of his two associates, W. H. Ludwig and C. W. Mandler.

Van Graafeiland admitted offering to sell Perpetual securities to Spoehrer, but based his defense upon a contention that the bonds were his personal property and were offered to Spoehrer only because he wanted to "let Spoehrer in on a good proposition." He denied handling the securities as a broker, or offering them to another individual. Testimony was introduced by the State, however, tending to show that Van Graafeiland did not own the bonds personally, but that $250,000 worth had been underwritten by the Van Luman Co.; that he had also offered them for sale to Albert Schreiber, of Red Bud, Ill., and that neither Van Graafeiland nor the Van Luman Co. had a permit from the State Finance Commission to sell them.

Former "Secretary" Testifies.

William H. Recten, 2117 Russell avenue, who described himself as a one-time "figurehead secretary" of the Perpetual corporation, was the only witness heard today. He was put on the stand when court opened this morning by the State to refute testimony previously given by Van Graafeiland that he (Van Graafeiland) had personally purchased $20,000 worth of the Perpetual securities. Recten denied knowledge of any personal purchase of bonds by Van Graafeiland and declared the arrangement called for underwriting of $15,000 to $20,000 worth of the securities by the Van Luman Co., which was to retain 10 to 15 per cent of the purchase price for handling them. At a meeting of Perpetual Royalty directors, which he attended, he testified, a discussion of the particulars of the transaction was held but no mention was made of Van Graafeiland having purchased any of the bonds. From this, he said, he inferred the entire block was taken over by the Van Luman Co. as a corporation. He said the bonds never were offered to the public by the Perpetual company.

Life Sentence for 14-Year-Old Boy.

LEXINGTON, S. C., Jan. 22.—Asbury Wessinger, 14 years old today, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his aunt, Mrs. Lina Wessinger, last September. The jury returned a verdict of guilty with recommendations of mercy. Answered over the low-a-penknife, the boy struck his aunt with an ax.
